It Would Take Study To See If Studies Worth It

By JIM CAMDEN and LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writers

In the last 3½ years, the city has spent at least $761,200 on studies. And the studies come in all sizes — from the $187,000 comprehensive plan to the $1,000 Northwest Lincoln Community survey.

Of course, all studies have one thing in common: the taxpayer foots the bill.

The federal government has kicked in $114,834 since March 1973. The rest came from city and county tax coffers, general revenue, community development and revenue sharing funds.

Do taxpayers, and government, get their money's worth for this outlay of cash? Some officials say yes; others say no, but it would probably take another study to find out which answer is correct.

Sue Bailey Is Convinced

City Councilwoman Sue Bailey said she's convinced the taxpayers are getting their money's worth.

"The council is more and more finding itself in the need of good information," Mrs. Bailey said. "So far I don't know of a study that I would call wasted, but it may be too early to tell."

Mrs. Bailey said she reads all reports and studies given to her, keeps them on file and reviews them from time to time.

But others in city government are not as positive as Mrs. Bailey. Councilmen Max Denney and Bob Sikyta say some of the studies are not worth the money.

Framed on the wall of Denney's law office is a cartoon which says: "Hire a consultant and go wrong with confidence."

"Someone has sold government agencies and departments on the idea of hiring consultants who do not know our problems, our people," Denney said. The consultants tell city officials what to do, then leave town, he said.

Under a desk in Denney's office is a pile of studies consuming space that would normally house a chair. "These are all studies I've received," he said, pointing to the sizable stack. "I've thrown away half again as much."

Denney Reads The Summaries

Denney said he usually reads the few pages of summary in the front or back to find out what the study is about. The rest, he said, he skips because it's often in "consultant language" rather than "ordinary persons' language."

Sikyta also admits he doesn't read each line of every study he receives. "I'd be wrong if I said I did," he said, adding that he scans the data presented and tries to read the conclusions.

A year ago, the council approved $77,700 for a parking study. A Kansas City firm monitored the number of parking spaces in the downtown area, watching how often people park there, how many violations occur. Researchers put small questionnaires on the windshields of parked cars to get motorists to divulge their parking habits.

Although the study will not be complete until December, the preliminary report said most of the parking spaces were in use between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., a number of cars parked illegally, downtown employees and government vehicles make up many of the long-term parkers and office workers form groups to watch for meter maids and feed the meters.

"I don't think we needed a consultant to tell us that," Sikyta said. "Common sense could have."

Problem Becomes Facts, Figures

Robert Holsinger, city traffic engineer, said, however, that everyone knew there was a parking problem. "Now we have the facts and figures to back it up and say this is what it is."

Holsinger said the study forced city officials to do some thinking about the parking situation and ways to improve it. The study suggested increased meter rates and higher fines. Mayor Helen Boosalis has indicated a willingness to raise the rates; the council would have to raise the fines.

But could the study have been done by a city agency? Mayor Boosalis said no — the city didn't have the personnel with the background and the expertise.

Holsinger also said no, but for a different reason. He said his staff had the technical ability but not the manpower to finish the study. "in a reasonable length of time."

Sikyta said many studies, including the parking study, could be done locally rather than by outside firms. "I think we've allowed ourselves to be trapped into feeling that people on the local level don't have the expertise to do these," he said.

Budget-Process Study Helpful

City officials are not critical of all studies. Denney said some have been helpful, especially a review of the budget process presented to the council in July.

That study, which a Kansas City firm did for $15,000, called the city's budgetary process a "frustrating exercise." It suggested switching to a different system, where each program must justify its existence every year.

For that study, the consultants focused on two large city departments, Public Works and Parks and Recreation, and suggested cuts.

For Public Works, the study said the Traffic Engineering Division could be reduced 50% because it is overstaffed and did design work that was done elsewhere.

Holsinger said his department submitted to the mayor a reply to the budget analysis study. "Maybe their analysis was incorrect," he said, "Just because a study is made doesn't mean the study is correct."

In Parks and Recreation, the study criticized the department's failure to use more seasonal part-time labor and suggested implementing fees for recreational programs such as summer softball.

Don Smith, park department director, said using more seasonal labor was not practical. He said the department is always looking for good seasonal worker to help with various programs. But he can't find that many.

Smith also noted that softball players do pay for such costs as umpires and field equipment. Adults pay 100% of those costs, youths pay half.

Which seems to show that with a study, you can please some of the officials all of the time, and maybe all of the officials some of the time, but you can never please all of the officials all of the time.

Butz Is Dilemma For Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford on Sunday prepared for his second debate with Jimmy Carter while faced with the thorny problem of how to deal with the latest controversy involving Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

A furor has arisen over derogatory racial remarks attributed to Butz in a national magazine, and both Republicans and Democrats have called for the secretary to resign or for Ford to fire him.

An aide to the cabinet official told The Associated Press that Butz, in a conversation with an unnamed White House aide on Saturday, had mentioned the possibility of resigning and offered to do so, but then decided to "sleep on it."

Butz earlier had been summoned to the White House, where he was severely reprimanded by Ford and apologized, saying he regretted his choice of language.

Butz was quoted as having referred to blacks as "coloreds" and making vulgar and derogatory comments about their supposed sexual, dress and bathroom preferences.

John Dean III, former White House counsel who was convicted in the Watergate conspiracy, wrote in Rolling Stone magazine that an unnamed cabinet member had made the remarks aboard an airplane following the Republican convention. New Times magazine identified the source of the remarks as Butz.

Carter, who has been demanding Butz' ouster from the Ford cabinet for some time, termed the remarks "disgraceful" and said the agriculture secretary "should have been fired long ago."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, after talking briefly with Ford, "We have nothing new to report on Earl Butz at this time."

Although the White House remained silent on the subject, there was speculation the President wanted to resolve the problem before leaving Monday on a six-day campaign swing that will include the debate with Carter on Wednesday in San Francisco.

The Butz affair hung like a cloud over the White House as the President worked to clear up legislation piled on his desk by the 94th Congress. He met with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to discuss Wednesday night's second verbal faceoff with Carter. The debate will deal with national defense and foreign affairs.

The Ford-Kissinger discussion centered on detente with the Soviet Union. Kissinger's recent efforts to resolve racial conflict in Southern Africa, and events in the Middle East, White House aides said.

Carter was being briefed by former Defense Secretary James A. Schlesinger, who was fired by Ford a year ago because of his criticism of administration policies concerning national defense and detente.

Ford is to leave for San Francisco late Monday and spend three days there. He will join his former primary rival, Ronald Reagan, at a GOP fundraising event in Los Angeles on Thursday, returning to Washington Saturday after stops in Oklahoma and Texas.

Observers saw Ford's dilemma concerning Butz as presenting a difficult choice between alienating black voters, if he stays, or risking adverse reaction from farm states where Butz's policies are popular, if he goes.

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said Sunday that Ford was confirming a lack of leadership ability because his decision on what to do about Butz "appears not to be based on whether . . . resignation would be right but on what the polls show and on what the political reaction is."

As Presidential aides tried to gauge the potential damage to Ford's campaign, Butz himself remained in seclusion in Washington. An aide said he wasn't feeling well, and possibly was suffering from a virus.

On ABC's "Issues and Answers," on Sunday, Democratic Govs. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts and Hugh Carey of New York said Butz should be fired, Carey adding that he was "mystified" why Ford hadn't taken such action.

Baja Hurricane Death Toll Could Reach 1,000

La Paz, Mexico (AP) — Rescue supplies poured into Baja California on Sunday, where workers pulled hundreds of bodies from the muck and debris left by Hurricane Liza.

Official figures and estimates of the number of bodies already found ranged from about 400 to 750, but hundreds of others were reported missing and most sources agreed the toll could go as high as 1,000.

Mexican troops immediately buried the bodies in mass graves or burned them to avoid epidemics.

La Paz, the capital of the state of Baja California Sur, was worst hit. The city of 85,000 and about a dozen towns nearby were without adequate drinking water and had no electricity or telephone service.

An estimated 70,000 persons were left homeless by the hurricane. The Mexican government said it was rushing in 100,000 meals and 40,000 temporary housing shelters by boat and plane.

Workers dug frantically in the 100-degree heat, looking for bodies in piles of mud and half-buried cars.

Neighborhoods were wiped out by the storm, which carried winds of up to 135 miles per hour and dumped five to six inches of rain.

Many of the victims died when the storm cracked a 30-foot earth dam. The flood washed away a crowded shanty town of thatched-roof wooden and cardboard shacks.

A blanket of mud covered the area below the dam, and the city's streets were strewn with hundreds of wrecked automobiles and debris.

The Los Angeles Times reported some residents were angry at the government, claiming officials had ignored requests to shore up the earthen dam.

Tent Revival Isn't What It Used To Be

By BOB REEVES
Star Staff Writer

Traveling around the country holding tent revival meetings can be a hard life at times, but you can be by the light in his eyes that evangelist Paul Hammond finds joy in his work.

Hammond set up his tent last week in a vacant lot on West O St. with plans to hold revival meetings every night through Oct. 10.

But the revival business has not been good this time around in Lincoln.

Last year he was here and had as many as a hundred people in one night, he said. This year he has never had more than a handful — and some nights none at all.

He is now planning to cut his stay a couple of days short — if attendance doesn't pick up.

Part of the appeal of tent meetings also accounts for their decline in recent years. "It's something out of the past," Hammond said.

When a person can watch four hours of preaching on television each Sunday morning, he may be less inclined to go out in the evening to listen to a preacher in a drafty tent.

But many attend Hammond's meetings throughout the country for nostalgic reasons, he said. Especially those with roots in the country like to relive the excitement of a "meetin'" coming to town.

Besides religion, it offered a rare source of entertainment and was a social event as well.

The Lincoln meeting got off to a poor start because of cold, rainy weather, but Hammond proudly shows off an oil heater which keeps his tent warm. The same type of heater is used in orchards to keep frost off trees.

Hammond's tent measures 60 feet by 90 feet when it's set up. Evangelists like to brag about the size of their tents, he explained. "The bigger the tent, the better the preacher."

The son of an evangelist, Hammond has been preaching since age 17. He got his first tent at age 19. He's now 30 years old.

With his wife and two children and a young assistant named Marty Caffey, Hammond hits the highways in a diesel truck and a pickup with travel trailer.

The trailer is their only home. "Home base" is Tucson, Ariz., but they spend less than a month there each year.

Hammond's wife plays the organ. Caffey strums an electric guitar, and Hammond's 8-year-old son plays the drums during meetings.

His son is receiving schooling by means of a correspondence course, in which he can progress at his own rate. Hammond feels his children will benefit from living the life of nomads.

Does he want his son to become an evangelist? Not necessarily, but "I want him to know that a person doesn't have to work nine to five every day and live in a house in order to be happy."

While preaching that old-time religion, Hammond also talks to modern man. In his Friday night meetings, to "an audience of seven, he spoke about "Christian maturity."

We're all God's children, but He wants us to grow up and accept our adult responsibilities, Hammond said.

He said he believes "the Lord sent me here (to Lincoln) to reap a harvest."

Noting the few who had come, he added, "If Jesus were to come to Lincoln, how would they treat him?"

After the meeting, he mentioned the large attendance at a nearby X-rated drive-in movie.

The modern world is filled with distractions.

Ford, Auto Union Said Near Accord

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers and strikebound Ford Motor Co. bargained late into the night Sunday amid increasingly apparent signs they were near a contract settlement.

The two sides recessed shortly before midnight Sunday, making it the latest night session since 170,000 workers in 22 states struck the automaker 20 days ago.

A union spokesman said negotiations could continue around the clock but more likely would recess either late Sunday or early Monday, with plans to resume later Monday morning.

"There is going to be work to be done tomorrow morning," the spokesman said.

One source close to the talks indicated earlier that the two sides had made little progress Sunday. However, another source said later in the night that only "finishing touches" remained.

Spokesmen for both sides said union and company negotiators spent most of Sunday huddling separately and only began joint bargaining at mid-evening. The two sides began intensive discussions, including nighttime sessions, on Friday.

Loyal Dog Spurns Affections

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet people have poured out their hearts to a ragged-eared German shepherd in the two weeks since a newspaper told the tale of the dog waiting at a Moscow airport for her master to return.

Several people have flown to Vnukovo Airport from other parts of the Soviet Union in hopes that the dog will accept them as new owners, the newspaper, Kom-somolskaya Pravda, reported Sunday.

One woman flew in from Donetsk in the Ukraine, bearing a package of meat and declaring simply to airport officials, "I've come for the dog."

But the dog refused to leave the airport. The owner, whose name and whereabouts are unknown, left the animal at the airport two years ago when health authorities wouldn't let her board a plane with him.

Komsomolskaya Pravda, responding to thousands of readers who have been writing and telephoning the paper, said the dog is better off now than when the newspaper first published her story.

Airport workers have built a dog house and fenced compound within view of arriving passengers and keep her well supplied with raw and cooked meat and water. Formerly, she relied on occasional handouts from a few members of the airport staff.

Perhaps because of the new attention, the dog has started taking some food from people's hands.

In a close call a few days ago, dogcatchers intruded onto the airport grounds, ostensibly to make sure the dog was all right. They suddenly seized the dog and tried to carry her off to the pound, the paper said, but the dog escaped and soon returned to her regular vigil near arriving planes.

The hunt for the owner is continuing. Komsomolskaya Pravda said. A television network in far north Russia, where the dog's owner is believed to have gone, has shown film of the dog at the airport.

The paper said a man from Azov, V.G. Yanda, had sent in 50 rubles to build a monument to the dog's dedication. He suggested as an inscription: "for educating our feelings."

One ninth-grader, sure the dog had once been in her family, went to the airport and called out the name "Verna" but the dog turned away. A third-grader from Lvov, Beata Chagovets, sent a money order for three rubles ($4.50) to buy the dog food.

"This story has not ended and, probably, will not end," Komsomolskaya Pravda wrote.

But it said the dog's vigil had become a living accusation to the owner and "to other people who win love, trust and dedication and then leave to long suffering at an airplane ramp, at any gate or entrance way, warm, suffering, living beings that are true to them."

Synagogue Desecrated By Arabs, Officials Say

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP) — Just hours before Jews began the celebration of Yom Kippur on Sunday, a group of Arabs broke into a synagogue at the Tomb of Abraham in occupied Hebron and tore apart furnishings and the holy books and scrolls inside, military officials said.

The government clamped a tight curfew on the West Bank city of 39,000 Arabs. Angry Jews congregated outside the Moslem mosque which covers the tomb to demand action from the government and to ensure access to the site for Jews during Yom Kippur.

The incident, the worst in several years of religious strife in the biblical city, came after rumors spread that Jews on Friday had desecrated copies of the Koran, the Moslem holy book, in the Moslem section of the tomb, which is holy to both religions. The military command said the rumors were false, but they were widely reported on Arab radio stations. Military sources also reported scattered demonstrations in other areas of the West Bank of the Jordan River. Students boycotted some classes, hurled stones at Israeli cars and set up burning roadblocks in Nablus, Ramallah and some other towns.

The religious strife came a few hours before the beginning of Yom Kippur, the holiest day on the Jewish calendar, when Jews pray for forgiveness of their sins. Israelis observed Yom Kippur with fasting and prayer Sunday. Traffic halted, airports closed and thousands of Jews flocked to synagogues.

The tomb of Abraham is normally packed on Yom Kippur with worshipers from the nearby Jewish settlement of Qiryat Arba. The Jews near Hebron have been carrying on a running battle with the town's Arabs over rights to pray at an abandoned synagogue in the town.

The government ordered the tomb closed on Friday because of stone-throwing incidents between Arabs and Jews.

Military sources said a force of more than 100 Arabs overwhelmed guards at the entrance of the cave before dawn prayers, ripped up several Torahs, or scrolls of Jewish law, and prayer books and scattered them around the cave. Furniture was gutted and the intricately woven curtains and coverings inside were torn to shreds.

"It was like a pogrom," said one source here with access to first-hand reports from Hebron. "We are particularly sensitive to the destruction of Torahs since that is what the Nazis used to do."

The destruction of the synagogue's contents was complete, the sources said.

Newsmen were prevented from entering the town, and independent reports were unavailable.

An Arab official of Hebron reached by telephone claimed the demonstration began peacefully but turned violent when army troops tried to clear the cave by force.

A town clerk of Hebron reached by telephone also blamed the violence on the Israeli army. The clerk, Khalid Iseil, said the demonstration began when students marched to the tomb waving copies of the Koran.

SANTA REYNOLDS ... and Cathy Cobb

Ho, Ho, Ho School Is Not Sugarplum

Dallas (AP) — Men with the right voice, the right size, a happy face and eyes that smile might get into Cathy Cobb's Santa Claus training school, but up to two-thirds of them will drop out before earning their whiskers.

Cathy is "Santa coordinator" for an employment agency that places Santas in department stores from Thanksgiving through Christmas Eve. She says the job isn't all cookies and milk.

Dean Reynolds, a four-year veteran of such work, agrees. He says children punch Santa in the stomach and leave candy canes stuck in his beard. "Then there's the lady with the ill-tempered mutt she wants to sit on your lap, and he's about ready to tear your throat out."

The training school begins Nov. 1 with classroom instructions on what to say to the tots who come by to place their toy orders. For example: what do you say to a child who tells you she just saw you at another store? Answer: "I saw you, too, and really had to hurry to beat you here."

The Santas generally earn $3 an hour and work an eight-hour day, Miss Cobb says. The average department store contract is $1,000 per Santa from Thanksgiving through Christmas Eve.

Reynolds says the Santa duty is a real ego builder. "I like being the center of attention. It gives me the opportunity to be the happy person I'd like to be, with no risk in doing it."

He says Santas can do just about anything. "You can flirt with the girls, talk to strangers. Too many times today you can't speak to a stranger on the street without getting funny looks."

Requests for things like brothers, puppies and ponies require some finesse, Reynolds says, with Santa usually saying he'll "see what he can do."

One thing that surprises Reynolds is the number of elderly women who want their pictures taken on Santa's lap. "I guess there's some kid in everybody, and they let it come out at Christmas."

Matsunaga Defeats Mink

Honolulu (AP) — Rep. Spark Matsunaga defeated Rep. Patsy Mink in the Democratic U.S. Senate primary, ending the chance for Hawaii to send a woman to the all-male chamber this year.

Daniel Akaka, who could become the first native Hawaiian elected to Congress, won the Democratic nomination for Mrs. Mink's seat and will face advertising executive Hank Inouye in the general election.

Matsunaga polled 105,721 votes, or 51 per cent of the total, to defeat Mrs. Mink in Saturday's primary.

Matsunaga, 59, will be pitted against former Republican Gov. William F. Quinn, 57, in the race to succeed retiring Republican Sen. Hiram F. Fong. Quinn swamped Spencer Cabral by about 15-1 in the Republican primary.

Matsunaga, a member of the famous all-Japanese 100th Infantry Battalion of World War II, helped engineer the Democratic sweep of the islands in 1944 and end the Republican dominance of the then territory. He was elected to the House in 1962.

"There are more Democrats than Republicans in Hawaii, and I'm counting on that," said Matsunaga, predicting victory in November. Democrats had a 5-1 registration advantage going into the primary.

"I risked everything for the opportunity to serve in the Senate," said Mrs. Mink, 48, who served six terms in the House. She said she intends to remain active in politics and some politicians have said that she will run for governor in 1978.

Mrs. Mink had no comment on her plans but said, "There's always another campaign."

The only woman candidate for Senate in November will be Democrat Gloria Schaffer of Connecticut.

Loser Says It Wasn't Fair

New Orleans (AP) — James A. Moreau, a New Orleans city councilman who lost by 50 votes in the Democratic congressional primary runoff to Richard A. Tonry, said Sunday fraudulent voting occurred and he would demand a recount.

"It was an out and out fraud and violation of the federal elections law," Moreau said the day after the runoff.

Tonry, a 41-year-old Chalmette, La., state representative who entered public office for the first time May 10, had a 50-vote edge in the race for the Democratic spot in the election to succeed retiring Rep. F. Edward Hebert.

If the results are upheld by a recount, Tonry would face Republican Robert Livingston and independent John Rarick on Nov. 2.

But Moreau predicted a recount would prove he was the winner.

"When the voting machine shows 700 votes and the books only show 500 voters, that means somebody rang the bell 200 times ... I'm not saying that Mr. Tonry was associated with it. But I'm saying that it went on," Moreau said.

He said he was only offering a hypothetical example of voting machine fraud, but he said he would ask a judge to impound the voting machines so that his charge of election fraud could be proved.

Tonry responded, "That's ridiculous. If there were votes cast improperly in any way, the logical place to assume that happened is in Plaquemines Parish. And we'll check the votes in Plaquemines too."

Moreau beat Tonry 5,509-597 in Plaquemines, a coastal area where a strong political machine historically has turned out lopsided votes for the candidate endorsed by local leaders.

Narrow Margin Boosts Schmidt

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Social Democratic Chancellor Helmut Schmidt claimed victory in West Germany's parliamentary election Sunday night, despite sizeable losses to conservatives led by challenger Helmut Kohl.

Projections of Sunday's voting by national television gave Schmidt's Socialist-Liberal coalition a narrow margin of strength to continue in power. The projected victory was based on a renewed pledge by the Free Democratic party, junior partner of the Social Democrats, to stick with the coalition through 1980.

Kohl, however, claimed his conservative Christian Democratic party was "the clear victor," based on gains in parliament, and was entitled to form the new government.

Schmidt told a nationwide television audience that he already had received a congratulatory telephone call from President Ford, who himself is campaigning for election.

"The President of the United States has just congratulated us on this and expressed the opinion that we deserved it," the chancellor said.

Turnout was heavy, estimated at more than 90% of West Germany's 41.6 million eligible voters.

The Second German Television network said its computer projection, calculated on the basis of returns from nearly 500 representative polling stations out of a total of 50,000, gave Schmidt's coalition of Social Democrats and Free Democrats a 50.5 to 49.5 edge over Kohl's conservatives.

Radical parties of the left and right and independents would receive only a fraction of the vote.

The projection worked out to a slender parliamentary majority of 10 seats, 253-243, for Schmidt's coalition — a hefty loss of 18 seats to the conservative opposition.

Schmidt's Social Democrats with 42.8%, would lose 16 seats and wind up with 214. The liberal Free Democrats, headed by Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher, with 7.7%, would lose two seats and keep 39.

The conservatives' projected 243 seats would give them 29 seats more than the Social Democrats.

Kohl, a relative newcomer to the national scene, said he would make his own coalition bid to Genscher's small Free Democratic party. But Genscher reiterated his party's pledge to stay with Schmidt for the next four years.

New York Times News Summary

Arabs To Withdraw

Damascus, Syria — Saudi Arabia has decided to withdraw from Syria the brigade of troops it has maintained on the Golan Heights since the October 1973 war with Israel. The decision, announced by Syrian officials here without comment, comes at a time when the Syrian army is already extended on two other fronts — in occupied Lebanon and on the Iraqi border — in addition to the Golan, where it is separated from Israeli forces by United Nations peacekeeping units.

Exiled Leader Returned

Salisbury, Rhodesia — Bishop Abel Muzorewa, an important leader of the fractionalized black nationalist movement, returned Sunday from 14 months of self exile to an enthusiastic welcome. He accused the United States of attempting to make his rival, Joshua Nkomo, head of an interim government.

Argentina Makes Comeback

Buenos Aires — Argentina is making a rapid comeback from the economic anarchy of six months ago, when the armed forces overthrew President Isabel Martinez de Peron. The industrial recession that rocked manufacturers between May and July, when demand fell by up to 80% for consumer durables, seems to be over and employment is being maintained, although real wages are down about 30%.

Sluggish Year Expected

Washington — American bankers, assembling here for the 103rd annual convention of the American Bankers Association this week, generally believe that the pace of the nation's economic recovery will stay sluggish for the remainder of this year.

Stiffer Sentences Favored

Washington — Donald I. Baker, the new head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, believes that "much stiffer sentences" should be imposed on criminal violators of the antitrust laws.

Temperatures Once Warmer

Pasadena, Calif. — Temperatures on earth were much warmer three billion years ago, reaching perhaps as high as 160 degrees Fahrenheit, according to an analysis of geochemical "thermometers" made here at the California Institute of Technology.

Lebanese Christian Promises Fight To Death In Mountains

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — A top Lebanese Christian leader said Sunday his forces will fight to the death to force Palestinian guerrillas out of mountain positions above Beirut.

Pierre Gemayel, leader of the Phalange party, called the Palestinians "bandits, assassins, thieves and criminals." He said the Lebanese civil war could be "the tomb of Palestine," referring to the guerrillas' goal of forming a Palestinian homeland out of territory now held by Israel.

Gemayel's statement increased fears that the current two-day lull in the civil war will be short-lived. "After the letdown, the showdown," headlined the Beirut weekly newspaper Monday morning.

Guerrillas used the sudden halt in the offensive by Christians and Syrian forces in the mountains to reinforce their defenses at the resorts of Aley and Bhamdoun.

The two towns, 10 and 12 miles from Beirut, are the last positions held by the guerrillas and their Lebanese Moslem leftist allies on the strategic Beirut-Damascus highway.

Christians who hold positions to the north and west have vowed to "liberate" the towns. A powerful Syrian armored force is poised on the eastern outskirts of Bham-doun, threatening to blast through and join up with the Christians.

Christian fighters halted an uphill assault on Aley on Friday after suffering heavy casualties.

Kamal Jumblatt, overall Lebanese leftist leader, arrived in Paris on Sunday to talk with French leaders about setting up an international conference on the civil war.

Jumblatt met with French Foreign Minister Louis de Guiranguad, then told newsmen that France "could intervene with the United States for it (America) to put pressure on Syria and Israel so that peace returns to Lebanon."

Protester Plays David To Nuclear Cruiser's Goliath

Auckland, New Zealand (UPI) — A lone protester Sunday delivered a writ to the captain of the nuclear-powered U.S. cruiser Long Beach by rowing up to the 16,000-ton warship and sticking the document on its side.

The protester, Donovan McGrath, said the writ summoned Capt. Harry C. Schrader, 44, of Sheboygan, Wis., to court for bringing into Auckland harbor an "injurious substance" — namely the Long Beach. McGrath said he obtained the writ from a court.

"I understand a sailor took the writ to the captain, who was watching from the Long Beach," McGrath said. "If Schrader is not in court tomorrow, I understand I have the power to ask for his arrest."

Lawyers for Schrader say the writ was invalid due to a technicality: it was delivered on a Sunday.

McGrath said security around the Long Beach was not very good and a saboteur would find it easy to reach her and cause a nuclear accident.

McGrath tried unsuccessfully to deliver a similar writ to the captain of the nuclear-powered U.S. cruiser Truxtun in Wellington last month: he tried to drop it from a plane.

Unions protesting the presence of the Long Beach have stopped work on the waterfront. The dairy workers union has prevented delivery of milk to the Long Beach. The waterfront strike will continue until the cruiser leaves Tuesday.

You Always Wondered Where Stars Got Cars

©The New York Times

Los Angeles — The cars are battered and beaten. The fenders are crumpled, the doors smashed and the upholstery torn. The place looks like an automobile junk yard. Few people would suspect it of being the most popular car-rental agency in Hollywood.

It is not the place you would expect to find Ali McGraw waiting in line to rent a car, or Sarah Miles returning one. But both actresses have been here. Miss McGraw rented an orange Mustang and Miss Miles got a 1966 Volkswagen with a sunroof. The place is Dave Schwartz's Bundy Rent-A-Wreck, until six years ago a cheap used-car lot.

In 1970 Schwartz sold a woman a used car for $225; it broke down the same day. She returned and said that she wanted a car that would at least last the three months she was going to be in Los Angeles. Would he rent her another car for the purchase price? Schwartz agreed and at the end of the three months he realized that he had both the car and the money.

He started the business as Rent-A-Used Car, but changed the name to Rent-A-Very Used Car. The rental agency became very popular with actors, waitresses, writers and anyone who needed dependable, inexpensive, short-term transportation.

It was Jeffery Kramer of "Jaws" fame that originally referred to the car rental agency as "Rent-A-Wreck," and the nick-name stuck among the local patrons.

Then the Los Angeles Police Department found a 1964 Chevrolet that had been stolen and reported the car as wrecked. The car, with both doors caved in but running smoothly, was in the same condition it had been rented. That afternoon someone else rented the "wreck." After that, Schwartz decided to change the name of his agency to Rent-A-Wreck.

Laughing, Schwartz recalls the time he sent one of his assistants, Kenny, after Schwartz's wife and child. On the way back, Kenny stopped to pick up a customer.

They all returned to the lot in the battered '64

Chevy. The man who climbed out of the back seat with Kenny's dog turned out to be Don Meredith, the former football player who has become an actor. Meredith chose a 1964 Rambler.

Cars should be transportation, not ego trips, and the more beat up a car is the better it should run — that is Schwartz's belief.

"People who drive Mercedes, they're always looking to see if you are looking at them. They're saying look what I've got. I've made it. But in my cars they don't look at you, they look away from you," Schwartz says.

And the people who rent the wrecks often feel the same way. You might refer to it as reverse snobbery when Brad Dourif and Chris Sarandon came in to rent cars for last year's Academy Awards. Both actors had been nominated for the same award as best supporting actor. Dourif, who played the "stutterer" in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," rented a beat-up '66 VW. And Sarandon from "Dog Day Afternoon" chose a '59 Rambler.

Rent-A-Wreck is perhaps not only the best place to find Hollywood transportation but it is also an excellent place for a young writer or actress to find work. Robyn Jaffe, a comedy writer, was in the office waiting while a '63 Comet she had rented was being worked on. Schwartz suggested that she call another writer who rented a car from him. The introduction led to a writing job for her on a new television series.

Perhaps Schwartz's crowning achievement is helping a young actress, Brooke Adams, land the lead in the new Terry Malick film "The Days of Heaven." Miss Adams, in one day to rent a car, casually mentioned that she really wanted the part. Later she called the rental office about her car and left a message on the answering machine.

The next day Malick's assistant director from Oregon came in to rent a car. As Schwartz tells it, "Brooke Adams has a really great voice. So, I'm telling him about how terrific she is and play him the voice. Sort of hard-selling her in a really subtle way. Supposedly they cast someone else for the part and at the last minute they change it and Brooke gets the lead."

Rich Nations Want Help As Badly As Poor

Manila, The Philippines (AP) — Some industrialized nations will be appealing for help as urgently as poorer countries when the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and World Bank open their joint annual meetings Monday.

Economically strapped Britain is seeking massive IMF aid, and Italy and France want to stop the slide in the price of gold to protect the value of their reserves. Third-World nations troubled by deepening debt need still more money from the two international financial institutions and a loosening of trade barriers by richer countries.

The conference begins with addresses by World Bank President Robert S. McNamara, IMF Managing Director J. Johannes Witteveen and Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos. Major nations make their public comments Tuesday.

Economics is expected to overshadow politics at the meeting, which draws together 3,000 finance ministers, bank executives and other participants in the world's biggest display of financial power.

The World Bank was established to lend money to poor countries when it was not available from other sources. The IMF is designed to stabilize the world monetary system.

Poorer countries have already abandoned proposals for a moratorium on their debt to the developed world, a key demand made at recent Third World conferences. Instead, they must keep the confidence of donor nations and institutions, like the World Bank and IMF, that might otherwise balk at new loans with such a threat hanging over them.

The U.S. delegation, led by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, will be promoting the idea of an international resources bank.

The proposal, first advanced by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, was rejected by the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development last May in Nairobi, Kenya.

The Americans describe the bank as a means of stimulating developing nations' output of raw materials by guaranteeing fair terms to both the producing nations and foreign investors. Its opponents contend that such a bank would undermine the poor nations' efforts to control prices of their raw materials.

The chairman of the IMF-World Bank joint development committee, Ivory Coast Finance Minister Henri Konan Bedie, said Sunday that the committee would form a working group to study the resources bank proposal.

Of the industrialized nations, Britain may have the most at stake here. It has asked the IMF for $3.9 billion in loans to help bolster the sagging British pound.

The British will negotiate the request backstage with Managing Director Witteveen, who has indicated that the IMF may lay down conditions more stringent than London has anticipated.

Italy and France are unhappy with the IMF's current series of gold auctions, believing the sales are driving down the price of the metal and, thereby, the value of their national reserves. Italy is especially worried. Its reserves serve as collateral for loans from its European Common Market partner West Germany.

But Witteveen has announced that the IMF will continue the auction system by which the IMF eventually will sell 25 million ounces of gold, with one-sixth of the return going into a special fund to help poor countries bring their growing balance-of-payments problems under control. The next sale is scheduled for Oct. 27.

The United States, interested in diluting the power of gold in the world economy, supports the auctions.

Arrests Follow Clash At Illegal Beer Party

Two Lancaster County Sheriff's deputies were assaulted Saturday night and their cruiser overturned while they were attempting to break up an illegal "keg party" at a house north of Lincoln on Rock Creek Road.

The party was termed illegal because beer was being sold without a license. Fliers had been printed and posted around town advertising a "kegger" at $2.00 per couple, authorities said.

The sheriff's office was alerted when a mother complained about one of the fliers her daughter had brought home.

At first the deputies tried to quietly confiscate the beer, but met with resistance. Several young people, all under twenty-one years of age, were placed under arrest.

Two of those arrested threw rocks at the deputies. Deputy Kenneth Jackson was treated and released at Lincoln General Hospital for facial cuts. The other deputy was not seriously injured.

Other youths who tipped the cruiser over during the disturbance, causing $2,000 damages, have not yet been identified. Eight persons were arrested.

Kidnaping Ends After 20 Months

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Eric Leupin, The Netherlands' honorary consul here, was freed by a guerrilla group that kidnaped him 20 months ago, Colombia's security department said Sunday.

Leupin, 50, was kidnaped by the Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces (CARF), a guerrilla group that authorities say is supported by the Communist party.

Leupin was at his lumber farm in southwestern Colombia when he was kidnaped in January 1975. His captivity was the longest in Colombian history.

The guerrillas at first demanded a ransom of $600,000, but later lowered the figure to $40,000.

Jobless Answer Possible?

There should not be much public lack of understanding of the approaches to the problem of unemployment on the part of the two presidential candidates. President Gerald Ford is dedicated to the traditional Republican approach — promotion of a profitable free enterprise system which, in turn, spurs production and, in the end, more jobs.

On the other side, for Democrat Jimmy Carter, the approach is also traditional. Carter would use various governmental means of promoting jobs for the unemployed, including some use of the federal government as an employer of last resort.

That is an oversimplification of the two sides but if voters make up their minds on only that fundamental philosophical difference, they will be casting a pretty intelligent vote.

But what we really wonder is if either party or candidate has a very promising answer on unemployment. If we had to go one or the other candidate's way, we would take Carter's, but not with overwhelming confidence.

What is so unsettling these days is the complexity of the economic system. For example, higher productivity is an economic asset but does it create more jobs? What it means is that a person is able to produce more at a given point in time than he could previously.

If the individual worker produces 3% more, that means 3% less for someone else to do — a decline in job opportunity.

In terms of our standard of living, it is hard not to wonder if we are near the end of the line. Can that standard of living continue indefinitely to improve without some sacrifice of job opportunity? Is the nation simply wealthy enough to support all its people in the manner to which they have become accustomed?

One wonders if inflation has not already taken such a heavy toll of our economy that recovery will be many years in the making. In inflationary terms, a large part of everyone's income today is unearned income. And anyone knows that non-productive or unearned income is not job-producing.

Additionally there are pockets of our economy, such as construction, that seem locked in a state of economic hardship.

Finally, population growth and more women in the job market have created a job demand that may simply be outdistancing the capacity of the economy.

Maybe Carter or Ford is right but we would not be at all surprised if both of them were wrong, that neither of them has dug deep enough into the problem to have found the answer.

Go For The Bundle

A flap of sorts developed at a recent meeting of local transportation officials over the right way of approaching Lincoln street improvement planning. It was reported that revenue projections are far below the cost of projected improvements.

What then, is the best course of action? Does the city plan and work for its needs or does it scale back plans to meet revenue projections?

The future will surely impose upon the city whatever practical limits we must live it. Why, then, would the city want to give up in advance on trying to meet its needs?

Certainly, the projected needs should be in our plans, whether the revenue projections meet them or not. If we have to cut in the future, so be it, but in aiming high, we may not fall so low.

There is no reason that the city should not fully plan its needs and then try to meet them. That provides at least an objective and a challenge and far more is likely to come of that than sitting back and deciding ahead of time that needs cannot be fulfilled.

California Conflict

SAN FRANCISCO — Sen. Robert Dole, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, told a group of Mexican Americans in Los Angeles on Sept. 24 that "I have not taken a public stand" on Proposition 13. That's the controversial ballot initiative to insure fair labor practices in California's strife-riddled agricultural areas.

Immediately after his speech, Dole was confronted by reporters who reminded him that on Sept. 14, addressing the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco, he had flatly opposed Proposition 13 — and chided Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, for reversing his stand and endorsing it. A reporter told Dole that he had a tape recording of the San Francisco speech.

"Good," Dole snapped. "Keep it."

But this bravado could not rescue the Kansas senator, who has spent virtually his whole campaign accusing Carter of saying different things to different audiences on the same issue. Larry Speakes, the Dole press secretary, later conceded that Dole not only had opposed Proposition 13 before an audience of San Francisco businessmen, then said he had "not taken a public stand" on it before the Los Angeles Mexican Americans, but that he also had been stating his opposition to the proposal in Midwest farm areas.

Proposition 13 is unquestionably a tough issue for a political candidate to deal with. Carter — a grower himself — hesitated before throwing his full weight behind it during his last California tour. By opposing it, the Republicans may have damaged whatever chance they had at a share of the Mexican-American vote — to which President Ford made a powerful overture recently when he appointed Edward Aguirre of California as the commissioner of education in the Department of HEW.

Aside from its impact on national politics, particularly the California and Texas campaigns, Proposition 13 poses a profound issue in itself — one that Gray Davis, Gov. Jerry Brown's administrative assistant, says "rises almost to the level of a cause." Some of its proponents believe it could change the very nature of California's politics, economy and society, by greatly increasing the power of the state's minorities and farm workers.

Proposition 13 grew out of the long, dark history of conflict on California farms between growers, Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers of America, and the Teamsters Union, which also has organized some farm workers and has much support among growers.

When Brown took office in 1975, his first major achievement was to get these three forces to agree to his Agricultural Labor Relations Act, and to "live with it" for two years without changes.

The act gave farm workers the right to vote to form or join unions of their own choice, as the National Labor Relations Act gave such rights to non-farm unions decades ago. Growers agreed to it, apparently, because it promised relief from the United Farm Workers' national grape boycott, and because they expected the Teamsters to win most organizing elections.

It didn't work that way. In 400 elections involving 40,000 workers — about 10% of the total — more than 30,000 voted for the Farm Workers. In December 1975 and January of 1976, after Brown named a special task force to enforce the law over grower resistance, the Farm Workers won 23 of 26 elections in the Imperial Valley.

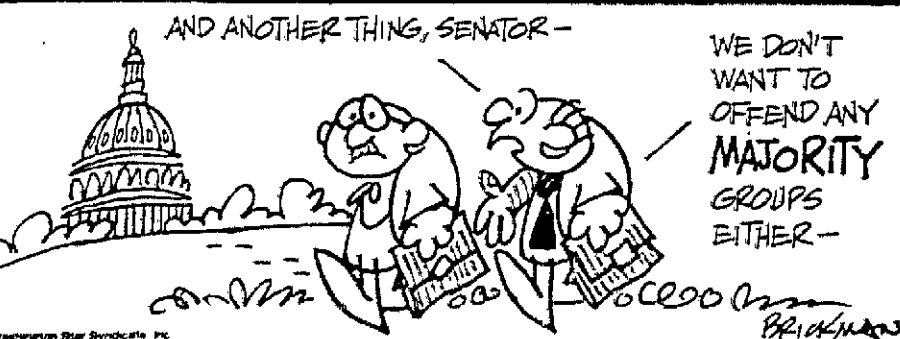

But by Feb. 1, because more elections than expected had been held, and because of the many unfair labor practices investigations that had been required, the Agricultural Labor Relations Board's funds had run out.

Under California law, emergency appropriations require a two-thirds vote of each legislative house — which growers, with mostly Republican support, succeeded in blocking. About 200 ALRB workers had to be let go, as Brown and the Farm Workers resisted the changes in the law demanded by growers before they would agree to new funding.

With the governor's support, the Farm Workers gathered 729,000 signatures in 29 days to put Proposition 13 on the November ballot.

Where are they when we need them? Those 19th Century visionaries, the Luddites, are nowhere to be found. Surely, there must be some descendants quietly waiting in their basements for the right moment.

Well, this is it, guys. Arise. Fulfill your destiny.

Your ancestors, who smashed new labor-saving textile machinery in England in about 1811-16 in protest against unemployment and reduced wages, were on the right track. Times have changed, but the enemy hasn't.

Progress. You'll find it on Page 1135 in the dictionary just below "program music" and it says: moving forward or onward; advance toward perfection or to a higher or better state; improvement.

Some machines did that. Right? But at some cost.

Who would want to part with the automobile, but then what causes you more frustration or irritation when it fails you?

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Visualize Pearl Bailey, in a beige sweater-suit with matching turban, carrying needlepoint in a brown paper bag, whisking past the uniformed guard at the high gate of the United Nations, en route to her job as Special Advisor to the U.S. delegation . . .

"Hiya, Chief," says the guard, "how are you?"

"Starved, sweetheart," bellows Pearl Bailey. "That mornin' session went an hour over and I didn't have breakfast." Up the incline toward the glass doors. "Gotta slow down here, honey. Pearl gets a little short of breath goin' uphill." She's a member of the multiple coronary club, result of a half-century of working 18-hour non-stop days. "Nothin' to worry about."

Through the entrance and up the escalator. Everyone nodding, saying "Hello, Miss Bailey," or "Hello, Chief" — delegates of all shapes and colors. "People sometimes ask, why does everybody know me here? The secret is I talk to everybody. Nothin' to it. You talk, people talk back. Openin' day when I went in, you'd have thought it was Moses partin' the water."

Up the elevator toward the Delegates Dining Room. "Hey, how are you and where are you from?" Pearl asks a small, bronze-complexioned gentleman standing beside her.

"Ceylon," he ventures, timidly. "Oh, sure, I know — you like a little curry in your food, is that right?" He nods, grins: "That's right."

Whisking off the lift, she gives him a knockout smile. "Well, I'm more the gravy 'n' cornbread type, but I'll carry up for you when we get together." He laughs. Everyone else laughs.

In the dining room, delegates wave and

Or the telephone . . . both a convenience and a harassment. An instrument of the devil; Sam Ervin accurately described it.

Power plants warm and cool us, and light the way. At some cost. But we accept it.

So, okay. We take the bad with the good, and call it progress.

But these computers . . . these humming, buzzing, ticking little devils which are spreading like germs, marching into every phase of our lives, cataloguing us, dictating to us, making us subservient to their quirks and quails, giving us instructions and substituting their intelligence for ours. Luddites, they are the new enemy.

Ever try to purchase a 15-cent newspaper at a downtown department store? You used to hand a clerk a quarter, and she'd give you a dime, and you'd be on your way.

Now you wait. And she waits for the machine to whir and tick and print and pop and gurgle and buzz before it releases your dime.

And if the clerk dares to push a wrong button, it won't work at all, holding her, you and your dime captive.

(Trying to add mailing charges to a gift purchase is much more exciting if you want to challenge the whole system.)

I suppose the main reason for many computers is to save labor costs. Substitute machine for man. Hear that, you closet Luddites?

In a nation with what now seems to be a chronic unemployment problem, that's a strange form of progress.

Computerization is coming to this paper's newsroom, too. Every time I hear the sad news that the installation time has been delayed, I secretly cheer.

Sorry, computer freaks. I guess I'm just against progress. Or am I?

Progress: moving forward or onward; advance toward perfection or to a higher or better state; improvement. Go, Luddites.

This week, if you can manage to get up for it, is the second presidential campaign debate.

Everyone felt a need to declare a winner in the last one. I would rate it a scoreless tie.

The big problem, I think, is that the candidates were over-briefed. If the debate has been agreed to on one day and televised the next, we would have learned more about the candidates.

If would have been better to hear them both answer questions off the top of their heads. Then, we might know what was really in there before the aides and advisors stuffed both of them full of statistics and figures and facts which they committed to memory.

Ford's gonna "win" this next one — on defense more than foreign policy. Voters have always responded to fears that America may not be spending enough on defense.

But he's probably gonna "win" it with fewer spectators. The last debate tuned a lot of viewers out for the duration.

Finishing up: — This week: Buffalo Hunt.

Our Shining Pearl At The UN

the U.N. our love and smiles. Isn't that marvelous? It's what it's all about."

The phone rings. Beside it there's an open Bible. "I'm a minister's daughter, you know, so I've been raised to peep in the Bible," she says as she picks up the receiver. She listens, then shouts with laughter. "Louis, honey, that's why I gave you the slip of paper, poor thing. It's 36-B and I need a white one and a black one. Yeah, just tell the girl that, and have her put it in a bag — or put 'em on both fists and take 'em home that way." She hangs up gently. "Dear Louis, he's such an artist, he shouldn't be sent shopping. If Henny Penny and the sky fell down, he'd say 'What key?'"

Pearl hasn't "retired" from show business, just because she's now a diplomat, appointed by President Ford; in fact, last week in New York her new movie, "Norman — Is That You?" opposite Redd Foxx premiered. She says "I love the length of it, 90 minutes. Other than 'Gone With the Wind' I can't think of any film worth all the time they take these days." She adds, "I like what I'm doin' now, but I can sing and dance and carry on, too, even at age 58. That's a beautiful number. Last spring I traveled through Africa and the Middle East, visiting the haves and have-nots. I had the pleasure of walking with kings, and crawling in huts, talkin' to people, touching people — even the lepers — which cleansed my soul. I could feel there's a whole lot of love needed all over the world, just as there is here in the U.N."

"And that's what it's all about. We've gotta give the world what's needed, not with money or with weapons but with understanding and love. Have you ever tried to unfold a rose that's closed in a bud? You tear it to bits. But a rose can unfold by itself if you just give it water, and sun, and a little time . . ."

"We've made mistakes and now we're trying to rectify them and reach out to other people, but you know you can't do that without talking to everybody, trying to understand their problems. We have our hands on the pulse of humanity at the U.N., but I want more — I want to get completely into their bloodstreams and run through their veins. We put in a new nation the other day — the Sechilles, just a bitty group of islands — and you know what their delegation said? They said, 'We're a small nation, but we'll bring to

Unbiased Opinion

I have read with considerable interest all the articles, editorials, and letters in the paper concerning the fire-fighters' situation. In one article and at the City Council meeting, it was mentioned how all the people petitioning and speaking were related to fire-fighters. I have no relatives with the Lincoln Fire Department, but I am vitally interested in fire protection and emergency medical services in our city.

You can be sure that when the fire-fighters are unable to perform at peak efficiency, they will be the ones who will catch the wrath of the public. Citizens aren't willing to pay for the services of the fire-fighters until they need it, and then no cost is too high.

NANCY HAUGNER

The Planners And Managers

The article in the Sept. 21 Star concerning the sudden change in some of the bus routes missed an important point. No warning of the first change on May 3 or the second change on Sept. 20 was given to bus riders. An article detailing the first change did appear on May 3, a trifle late.

Mr. Donaghy, general manager of LTS, says that the second change was planned from the start but, again, this information was never conveyed to the riders. In fact, a route map picked up on the morning of the change shows the old route.

A little co-ordination between city government and LTS coupled with some common-sense thinking would have allowed advance notice of both changes. It seems only reasonable that these warnings should have appeared not only in the local papers but also in the places one is most likely to find bus-riders — in the buses.

I realize that LTS has an aversion to signs in their vehicles and that they operate on a tight budget, but surely someone at the bus company could have hand-lettered a few placards.

It is unfortunate that problems like this will probably be ignored as long as urban planners live outside the city and bus-line managers don't ride the buses.

The Negative Side

I have been reading quite a few articles in the paper about the motorcycle helmet law and would like to state my opinion on this subject. I feel that we as motorcyclists should be given the right to make a choice whether we want to wear helmets in town or not.

Everybody makes positive statements about helmets, so I would like to make a few negative statements about them. They are hot, sweaty, uncomfortable and in some ways you can't always hear or see clearly with them on. Therefore, I think we should be able to make a choice.

Wants To See Movies

I would like to ask a question or two. Why is it that high-school students can't see X-rated movies, when they can see, hear or even do the things that involve a sex movie?

It's really not that big of a deal, but high-school students are ready for this. Anyway, some X-rated or R-rated movies don't always have sex. They also use bad language. Why can't we be proud to see any movie we want to see? If we're old enough to drive cars, why can't we drive them in to a X- or R-rated movie at a drive-in, or anywhere?

I don't think it's right, being kept away from these good movies. What is wrong with us seeing this type of movie? Why should we have to wait any longer?

CAN I BE HEARD?

Much Criticism And Comment

"Reaction A Bit Strong," it said in the Sept. 27 Star, and "Council Stops Presses On Media Campaign" makes me wonder a good bit about things.

Some things were listed that the mayor has done that the people don't like. I can add to that the change in the bus routes.

It was stated that it is hardly a scandalous record, but for many people it seems that it is, and the fact that our City Council and mayor scorn the people's wishes by simply throwing out their petitions and ignoring them doesn't set very well with many.

About these papers and flyers — who is going to pay for them? Is it going to be another burden on the taxpayers? For what?

I think our city planning committee, City Council and mayor don't realize how strongly people are feeling about things and what makes them angrier is to have their petitions ignored.

I went from house to house in just one block several Sundays ago with a petition for the firemen, and heard many comments. There was only one man who did not want to sign. However, there were 20 signatures in one block.

Not once did I hear a word in favor of the City Council or the mayor. I ride the bus and have heard no word said in favor of the bus changes, but plenty against them.

I would like to survey other blocks in different parts of the city. Mr. Denney is wrong when he says people will sign anything taken to the house. They all read the petition carefully, and sometimes twice.

Charges Pending In Oil Swindle

By United Press International
The State Banking Department's legal counsel said he is on the verge of taking legal action against two Texas firms that allegedly swindled Nebraskans in the sale of securities to finance out-of-state gas and oil wells.

Barry Lake, legal counsel and assistant state banking director, said he intends to file fraud charges against one of the two firms and cease and desist orders against the second Texas oil company, and, possible others.

He said the Securities and Exchange Commission claims the Texas firm fraudulently misrepresented itself in written documents when the company sold its securities, which are the investors' share in the oil companies.

The firm facing fraud charges in Nebraska has declared bankruptcy in Texas, Lake said, adding that federal authorities have alleged the company hid commissions and took money from the investments without telling investors.

Lake said the SEC will send him a formal complaint, after which he will take the complaint to the county attorneys where the oil company sold securities in some 20 Nebraska counties.

In addition, Lake said, when he receives affidavits from Douglas County he will issue cease and desist orders against at least one oil company selling securities in Nebraska. He said he expects the affidavits "in a few days."

Several oil companies operating in Nebraska, which he declined to name, also have criminal charges pending against them in other states, Lake said.

Earlier this summer, Lake issued cease and desist orders against four oil companies accused of illegal activities in another state. Some of the companies already are under indictment and investigation by federal authorities and the SEC, he said.

Lake said the four companies received cease and desist orders because they failed to register their working interests and failed to register themselves as broker-dealers and agents with the Nebraska Bureau of Securities.

The unlawful sale of the working interest in oil and gas wells for the four companies have been estimated by the Bureau of Securities to be a minimum of $250,000.

In addition, Lake said the Nebraska activity may be connected to oil schemes in Texas, Oklahoma and California. More than $1 million has been involved in the Southwest oil schemes, he said.

At some unearthly hour, out of some unearthly dream, there was a tinkly chime: "Ding, dong." A faraway voice said: "Breakfast is now being served in the Coral Dining Room."

I found my watch: 8 o'clock! Good grief!

I put my feet on the floor and it rocked under me. I thought: "This is it. I've had it. Over I go..."

Then the head cleared. Memory returned. I looked out the porthole. Water, water everywhere.

I went back to bed and back to sleep. Why should I get up for breakfast? When I wake up, all I do is push a button. The steward BRINGS it to me.

Nobody seems to have authority to lift it off. Maybe a matter of union jurisdiction?

An officer was leaning over the bridge wing and saying something into a walkie talkie.

Finally a man drove up in an open Thunderbird. There was a grave looking poodle sitting beside him. The man stopped the car. He got out. And while the poodle watched — the dog had the look of a supervisor, maybe he WAS a supervisor — the man, lifted the ring of rope off the cleat and we were free.

Voters Oppose Defense Cuts

By LOUIS HARRIS
By a narrow 43-38%, a plurality of the voters rejects Jimmy Carter's campaign position that defense spending should be cut by 5 to 7 billion. A 61-23% majority of the electorate instead wants to "make sure our defense preparation and weapons are better than those of any other country, even if this means increasing defense spending."

Louis Harris
Best Defense Is Wanted

Since the end of the Vietnam war, public backing for defense spending has made a steady recovery with public opinion. Although the American people are deeply concerned about federal spending, they have recently taken the position that a cutback in the defense budget is rather low on their list of national priorities.

This growing opposition to cuts in defense spending should not be taken as a signal from the electorate that it wants a slowdown in efforts to achieve deente and greater international cooperation abroad.

A lopsided 73-16% majority wants the U.S. "to continue to try to achieve detente — that is, find more ways to cooperate with Russia and China to find common areas of agreement." An even higher 80-10% majority supports efforts to "get agreement with Russia on a reduction of strategic nuclear arms and missiles." By a clear 50-25%, the public turns down the suggestion that "agreements with Russia and China be slowed down, even if this raises the risks of smaller wars breaking out in parts of the world."

Although they are reluctant to see any sizable cuts in the defense budget, the people have a number of criticisms about the way American foreign and military policies are being conducted.

— A 56-26% majority favors "the U.S. cutting back on the amount of military weapons we sell abroad, even if other countries continue to sell weapons."

Voters express widespread uneasiness over the escalation of arms shipments to nearly every part of the world, fearing these weapons will trigger small wars, which will ultimately involve the U.S.

— By 79-9%, a majority of the voters favors "the Administration consulting more with Congress and the American people when making agreements with allies and other countries abroad." A major criticism of Secretary Kissinger's conduct of foreign affairs has been his seeming lack of adequate consultation with Congress, especially before he goes off abroad to a negotiating round.

— By 62-19%, a clear majority of the voters also favors "the U.S. insisting that some of our allies, such as South Korea, end corruption in their governments and repression of the rights of some of their citizens." The days when the public was willing to accept any nation as an ally if it pledged loyalty to the U.S. appear to be close to an end — at least as far as public opinion is concerned.

In line with their desire to see defense spending kept at high levels the public supports two international steps involving the use of American power:

— By 63-19%, a majority of the electorate wants to see "the U.S. strengthen military security arrangements with out allies, such as NATO in western Europe." After much discussion about thinning out the American military presence in Europe, there appears to be a rallying of support behind the NATO alliance.

— By 74-14%, a sizable majority would favor this country "taking the lead in setting up an international police force that will crack down on air hijackers and guerrillas who take violent action around the world." Since the events at Entebbe, where Israeli troops rescued hostages, the American people feel that international police action should be promptly taken against hijackers.

Support for the role of the United States as a central negotiator in disputes between other countries is evident in the 68-15% majority who back this country, "keeping the lead in trying to get a negotiation of a peaceful settlement between Israel and the Arab nations in the Middle East."

All in all, the current set of public opinion on the eye of the second key Ford-Carter debate is generally supportive of the "peace-through-strength" approach emphasized by the Administration. However, the two big exceptions are opposition to American backing of repressive and undemocratic regimes and the continued shipment of arms aid abroad.

Recently, the Harris Survey asked a cross section of 1,471 voters:

"In the area of foreign policy, do you favor or oppose (READ LIST)?"

Aliens Recruited By Workers At Plant

North Platte (AP) — Workers at the Nebraska Public Power District plant in Sutherland recruited aliens who illegally entered the United States, according to Lincoln County officials and testimony in Lincoln County Court.

An employee of National Industrial Constructors (NIC), major contractor for the new power plant, has testified that he paid his foreman $100 for his job with NIC.

The employee, Alfonso Catalan, was one of 11 illegal aliens arrested Sept. 25 at the scene of the Roberto Alarcon shooting in North Platte.

Ten of the 11 illegal aliens were NIC employees, according to Lincoln County Atty. Milton Larson.

Catalan, who had been working at the Sutherland plant for about three months prior to his arrest, said he came to North Platte with friends from Mexico. Alarcon, who was killed by a shotgun blast, drove five of the Mexican residents from Phoenix, Ariz., to North Platte, Catalan testified.

Catalan was one of two Spanish-speaking aliens to testify in a preliminary hearing for Lee T. Rivera who is charged with first degree murder in Alarcon's death.

Defense attorney William Padley of Ogallala argued that Alarcon and a friend were "involved in smuggling aliens" into the area to work for NIC.

"That didn't surprise me one bit," Lincoln County Sheriff Gordon "Hop" Gilster said of the testimony. "I'm sure both of them were telling the truth."

About 200 Mexican nationals who illegally enter the United States are arrested and held in the Lincoln County jail each year, Gilster said.

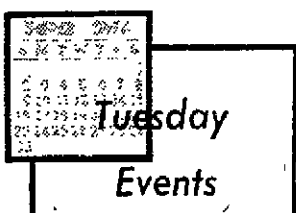

Illegal aliens are held until U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service investigators from Omaha can interview them.

Most aliens are offered a free ride out of the country, immigration investigator Andrew Hattery said. If not deported, the aliens must appear in court for an immigration hearing.

NIC officials deny recruiting aliens or encouraging them to work at the coal-fired power plant under construction south of Sutherland.

But they do not ask prospective employees if they are U.S. citizens, company officials said.

Rep. Smith Joins Effort On Brazil Trade Curbs

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Nebr., said Sunday she and others in the House have called on President Ford to intervene Monday in an effort to lift some of the trade barriers being imposed by Brazil.

"We have joined in signing a letter to President Ford asking him to use the occasion of the October 4th visit of Brazilian Foreign Minister Silveira to raise questions about the discriminatory trade restrictions," Mrs. Smith said.

In question are restrictions against some U.S. agricultural products and the American general aviation industry.

Mrs. Smith said of special concern in her congressional district is the "unilateral action of the Brazilian government threatening the level of U.S. wheat sales to that country."

Brazil requires Great Plains Wheat Inc., the promoter of U.S. wheat sales in Brazil, to deposit $1,200 each time they leave the country.

"This money can only be withdrawn $100 at a time and as a consequence has forced Great Plains Wheat to close its Brazilian office and move to Venezuela," Mrs. Smith said.

That action, plus import prohibitions on raisins, prunes, walnuts, almonds and the "de facto embargo against the importation of U.S. general aviation aircraft, are not in the interest of good trading relations," she said. "We feel these inequities should be corrected."

Demotion For Wife's Sake

New York (AP) — The third-highest ranking officer in the Fire Department voluntarily took a demotion Sunday in order to qualify for medical benefits for his wife, who is seriously ill.

On Saturday, Frank Cruthers was chief of operations for the entire city. On Sunday, he started work as deputy chief in command of the 14th Division in the borough of Queens.

The contract covering his higher-ranking job as a staff officer entitled his wife to only 21 days of insured hospitalization. In his new job, as a regular fire officer, she qualifies for 300 days.

Because of overtime, night differentials and other benefits, Cruthers takes only a $5-a-week cut in his former $41,000-a-year salary.

Strike Not Bothering Greenlanders

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — A two-week-old strike by Greenland's helicopter pilots has reduced regular transportation among isolated towns and trading stations on the world's largest island to two ships. But the strike doesn't seem to be bothering the residents much.

"People up here are used to waiting a couple of days even for helicopter transportation," said a newsman at the Godthaab radio station. "They take it easy while they wait for the ships."

The ships make stops three times a week at towns on the west coast, he said, and a number of private boat owners are making passengers runs on the south-west coast.

Greenland is a Danish territory covering about 840,000 square miles but the ice-free part of that is estimated at only 132,000 square miles. Its population is about 35,000. The island, north-northeast of Canada, is 3,000 miles from the Danish capital of Copenhagen.

The newsman said winter would be coming soon. As the ice and snow cover the coast and inland waters, he said, dog sleds would take over as the major source of transportation for a time.

A spokesman for the Greenland Air Co. said he saw no immediate solution to the strike, which began over a pay dispute.

The pilots want an increase of at least 21 per cent. The air company had offered 8 per cent when negotiations broke down at the end of August.

Tractor Testers Go To Some Extreme Lengths To Be Fair

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"What we are doing is comparing tractors with each other under conditions as identical as we can make them. Even the temperature must be the same," said Dr. Louis I. Liviticus, chief engineer of the Nebraska Tractor Testing Station.

Liviticus and his crew of engineers go to some extreme lengths to make sure conditions are identical for the 35 tractors tested each year. Sometimes the tests are run as early as 3 a.m. in order to have the right humidity and temperature conditions.

Huge fans keep the heat from tractors involved in Power Take Off (PTO) tests inside of the building from altering the temperature beyond acceptable limits for the tests.

The oval cement road used in some tests is scrubbed regularly to keep it clean. If any oil, anti-freeze or other material gets spilled on the track, the crew literally scrubs it with brooms, soap and water.

The actual test portions of the track are straight strips on each side of a half-mile oval track. Tractors are tested for their ability to pull on the strips.

The tractors tested are brought from the factory production without any tinkering. They are standard models available to Nebraska farmers from dealers who maintain a complete stock of parts.

"Once in a while, someone will try to put something over on us. We once had a tractor that had its exhaust manifold polished on the inside. We told them they had two choices, they could polish the manifold on every tractor they sold in Nebraska or withdraw from the test. The company chose to withdraw the tractor," he said.

A company can elect to withdraw the tractor that is found to be below standard or if it happens to be a dud, one that failed to function properly. "We just number the test and note that it was withdrawn without comment. They do have to pay the testing fee however. They can bring another tractor, but there is also a new testing fee," Liviticus said.

The tractor companies have run separate tests with two types of tires, radial and standard, but they pay extra for the double testing. "The rule is that at least 50% of the tractors they sell must be equipped with the equipment on the tractor. This applies to things like power steering, special fuel attachments and other items. Items sold as options are not to be on the tractor being tested," he said.

The Versatile Tractor made in Canada is the only major tractor make not tested at the station. It cannot be sold in Nebraska or even advertised for sale. Even used tractors made by Versatile cannot be sold in Nebraska. Any Versatile advertising that might be read in Nebraska must carry a notice that the tractor cannot be sold here.

Many foreign countries bring their tractors to Lincoln to be tested. Some are sold in the state and others aren't.

Russian, British, Polish, Japanese, German and Czech tractors have been tested in recent months.

The tractor companies must have an engineer on hand during the tests, who usually operates the tractor as it is being tested.

Following the test, the tractor is taken apart and the various engine parts are checked for any tinkering that would give a false impression of power.

"We look for polished parts, grinding in the head, changes in the valves, the type of filters, signs of overfueling and several other things that might indicate some special treatment for this tractor. If we find it has been altered, that it is nonstandard, the company may withdraw it or we prepare a report telling of the changes made in it and they don't have the right to sell the tractor in the state unless it has all the same changes in it," Liviticus explained.

A board of engineers makes decisions on testing policy and Glenn Kreuscher, state director of agriculture, makes the final ruling on whether a company will get a license to sell its particular tractor in Nebraska.

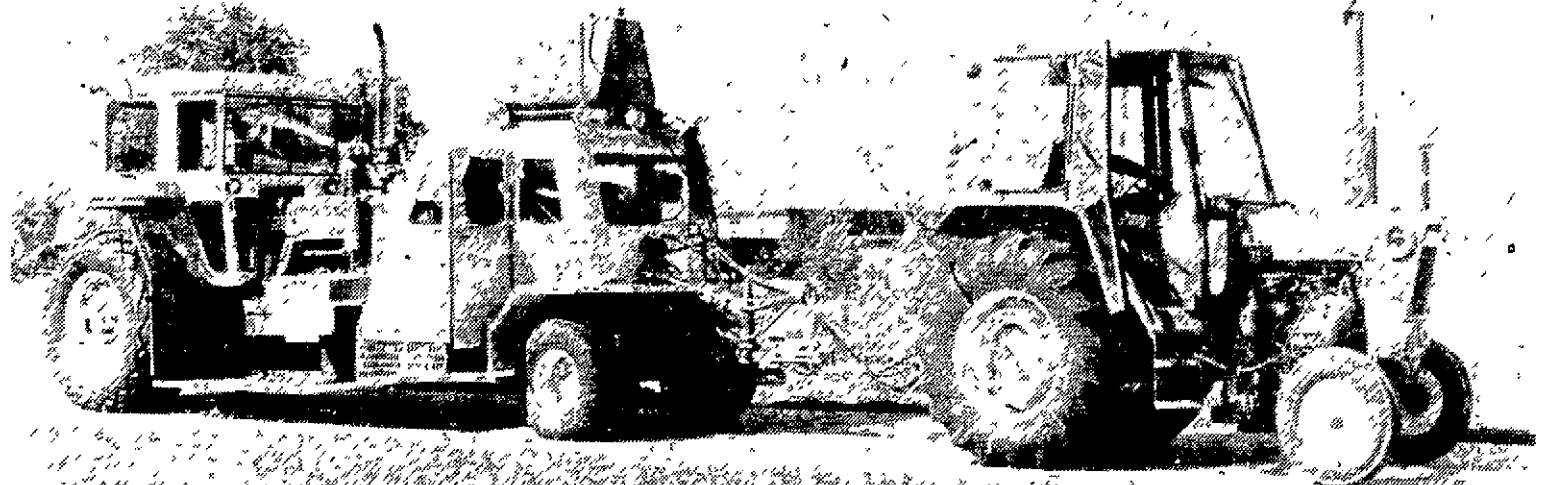

Even advertising folders are gone over to make sure the information there matches what was found in the Nebraska test.

Some foreign companies have had problems with translation to English and conversion from metric to U.S. horsepower. "A metric horsepower is less than a U.S. horsepower."

"Most of the companies are honest. Once in a while some person will get adventurous but over the years they have learned it doesn't pay to try to cheat," Liviticus said.

The entire cost of operating the tractor testing station are paid out of the fees for testing. There are no state or federal tax dollars involved.

"Ironically the federal government does finance some costs at tractor testing stations in other countries under the old Marshall Plan. It would be nice if they would give us equal treatment," Liviticus added.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

A group of 4-H members from Dawson County on a tour back East made such an impression on a New York homemaker that she wrote to Nebraska to share her impressions of our 4-H youngsters.

Mrs. Andrew Manzi of Albany, N.Y., described the group which she met in a local restaurant as "clean, neat, well-mannered and well-spoken."

"If these young people are any indication of the nature of the youth in Nebraska," he assured that at least one of us in the East thinks you should list them as your No. 1 crop," she said.

We have always thought highly of the 4-H programs and the kind of kids the program produces.

There is a desperate need for more 4-H programs and the kind of kids the program produces.

There is a desperate need for more 4-H leaders who are working at the business of building better kids and less concerned about winning shows.

B. E. Gingery outlined the goals of all good youth programs in a brief address to PFA members at the end of the State Fair. "There are no losers in this program. You all learn from the experience of competition even if you get the bottom ribbon or award. Education and sportsmanship is our goal," he said.

There are lots of good programs, 4-H, FFA, Y-pals, Indian Guides, Campfire Girls, Explorer Scouts, Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Future Home Makers and Futurists. All have two things in common; good parents interested in their kids and other adults who take the time to build a future

American by working with these youth groups as an adult leader.

Farmers are people. That is a message that we need to get across to some nonfarmers who have some pretty wrong ideas on what to expect from a farmer.

Farmers are expected to vote against Ford because the President was involved in embargoes. While this angered them, it doesn't necessarily mean it is the only thing on a farmer's mind as he enters the voting booth.

Farmers really aren't all that different from nonfarmers. They may be a bit more like a businessman than a blue-collar worker because they have to own a half-million dollars worth of land and machinery to make a living.

Farmers put in some long hours during harvest and planting seasons, at calving time and at roundup time but they also get time to do a bit of fishing.

Most today have a high school diploma and a great many have graduated from college, some with a full Ph.D. People like that aren't going to throw their vote away on just one issue unless they are very very angry about it.

In case you missed it, conservation programs got their federal funds once again despite the objections of the Ford administration and the Office of Management and Budget.

This means that you should discuss whatever terracing, pond building and other acceptable practices you might be considering with your Soil Conservation Service and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) staff in your county.

Sheepmen are being asked to check their records for any sheep purchased from the S. R. Jackson flock in La Salle County, Ill.

Anyone who can trace any of his animals back to that flock should contact a federal veterinarian immediately.

The concern comes from a Suffolk ewe that came down with Scrapie, a disease that causes the sheep to rub against the fence.

The disease can be undetected in an animal for 42 months or possibly even longer, so don't fool around with any sheep that may have come from this flock.

The Hessians are coming ... maybe ... but probably not because it was very dry this summer.

The Hessian fly is an insect that apparently arrived along with the German troops old King George of England hired to fight the upstart Yankee farmers.

The flies lived in straw bedding for the horses of the officers and the darn things are here still.

Dr. Dave Kieth, an entomologist at UNL, says they haven't been a major pest in recent years, mostly because new varieties of wheat resist them quite well. Farmers have also learned to plant their wheat a little later to avoid the egg-laying stage.

If you planted wheat that emerged after Sept. 24 you should be safe. Besides, the drought held down volunteer wheat this year.

If you have a wheat stem with no wheat or very light wheat, there may be a fly growing in the stem.

Twelve Compete For UNL Royalty Honors

Twelve finalists for this year's Homecoming royalty contest sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's two spirit organizations — Tassels and Corn Cobs — have been announced.

They include 10 female and two male candidates, all juniors. Students will vote for both a male and a female to represent the university at Homecoming festivities Oct. 15-16. Voting will be Oct. 11 in the Nebraska Union on the city campus and Oct. 12 in the East Campus Union.

This year's Homecoming Royalty winners will be announced at REK-SHUN-ROC, the all-campus Homecoming celebration to be held in the Nebraska Union Oct. 15 from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. The royal couple will preside over REK-SHUN-ROC (Cornhusker, spelled backwards) and also at the Homecoming football game with Kansas State on Oct. 16. All 12 finalists will be introduced at half-time of the football game.

The 10 female candidates for Homecoming Royalty are:

Kim Chace, Laurel, a Home Economics major who is this year's chairperson of the East Union Program Council's education committee, was selected last spring as a Mortar Board Notable Woman, and is a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron home economics honorary and Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Elizabeth (Lisa) Martin Danberg, Omaha, a French major in both Teachers College and the College of Arts and Sciences who serves on several committees of the Nebraska Union Program Council, has tutored Nebraska Indian children as a member of TONIC, has been an honor student each semester of her academic career, and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Price Tag At Least $34,000 On Doniphan Power Hearing

By United Press International

A price tag of at least $34,000 hangs on the Power Review Board's 10-day hearing on an application by the Great Plains Power Agency to build a coal-fired power plant near Doniphan.

The agency was set up by the cities of Grand Island and Hastings in an attempt to cut power generation costs and provide a new source of energy to keep pace with increasing customer demands.

The Power Review Board spent 10 full days in Lincoln reviewing the application to construct the 150-megawatt unit, but the hearing stretched out over two months. While in Lincoln, each board member received $50 a day plus compensation for mileage, room and board.

Expenses incurred by the six-man board during the August and September hearings exceeds $3,400, according to the board's expense statements.

Not all board members attended the entire hearing, although at least four members were present at the same time.

The residents, who have expressed their opposition to the proposed site through petitions and their presence at the hearing, figure they will spend more than $30,000 in legal fees.

Bill Schuppan, who owns 160 acres on Section 33 where the two cities hope to build the plant, estimates the landowners' legal fees could reach the $40,000 mark.

Schuppan said the eight landowners on Section 33 will divide the cost on a per acre basis. But he said residents in the village of Doniphan and surrounding communities already have contributed more than $10,000 to help cover legal costs.

NMA To Assist Maligned Doctors

The Nebraska Medical Association has voted to provide funds and other assistance for Nebraska doctors who feel they have been wrongly named in malpractice suits.

Committee chairman Dr. James Dunlap of Norfolk said a number of cases already have been received and will be evaluated for merit.

State president Dr. Harlan Papenfuss of Lincoln said countersuits against patients and their attorneys can help cut down "nuisance" suits filed against doctors. Papenfuss said nuisance suits, even if settled out of court, add to the cost of malpractice insurance and ultimately to patients' bills.

The Versatile Chest

It may not quite match what was termed a hope chest a few years back, but the three-drawer or bachelor chest is an excellent furniture piece on which to build for the future.

In fact, it's the best investment a young couple can make in furniture, according to Bart Johnson, interior design consultant for Miller & Paine.

He said he recommends the purchase of such a chest as a good starter piece because it is one of the most flexible and functional pieces of furniture one can buy.

It can be used in practically any room in the apartment or house, and serve many functions.

For example, Johnson tells of one young couple with a limited budget which purchased such a chest as a starter piece. The couple initially used the bachelor chest in the entrance hall of an apartment, later used it as a lamp table in the bedroom and more recently as a functional server between the living and dining areas of the apartment.

"They are now buying a home and plan to integrate the chest in their new home decor," Johnson notes.

Such a piece of furniture — if it is in a good, basic style — can be a part of the home furnishings for many years.

Johnson suggests that it may be used as an end table, as a hallway piece with a mirror, clock or picture above it, or in the bedroom or living room as a lamp table or table to display some art object.

And as in the case of the one couple about whom Johnson spoke, a bachelor chest can function as a server/divider between living and dining areas.

Although antique or period pieces of this size chest are difficult to find, Johnson says that those who enjoy collecting and integrating antiques in their home may want to seek out a small chest to use as a flexible bachelor chest.

Some of the cedar chests are appearing again in the higher bachelor chest styles and these may also be used in the same versatile way that the three-drawer chest is used.

The cedar chest, long used as a hope chest or dowry chest, is making a return, according to Johnson, who says that they again have become a popular high school graduation gift as they were in the early '50s.

Although Johnson recommends buying a good quality wood chest which will be a fine piece of furniture after many years, he says it doesn't necessarily have to be of fine wood or have much detail on it to be a good basic piece of furniture from which to build.

Losing popularity but a possibility for the three-drawer chest is the antiqued finish chest for a spot of color in a room.

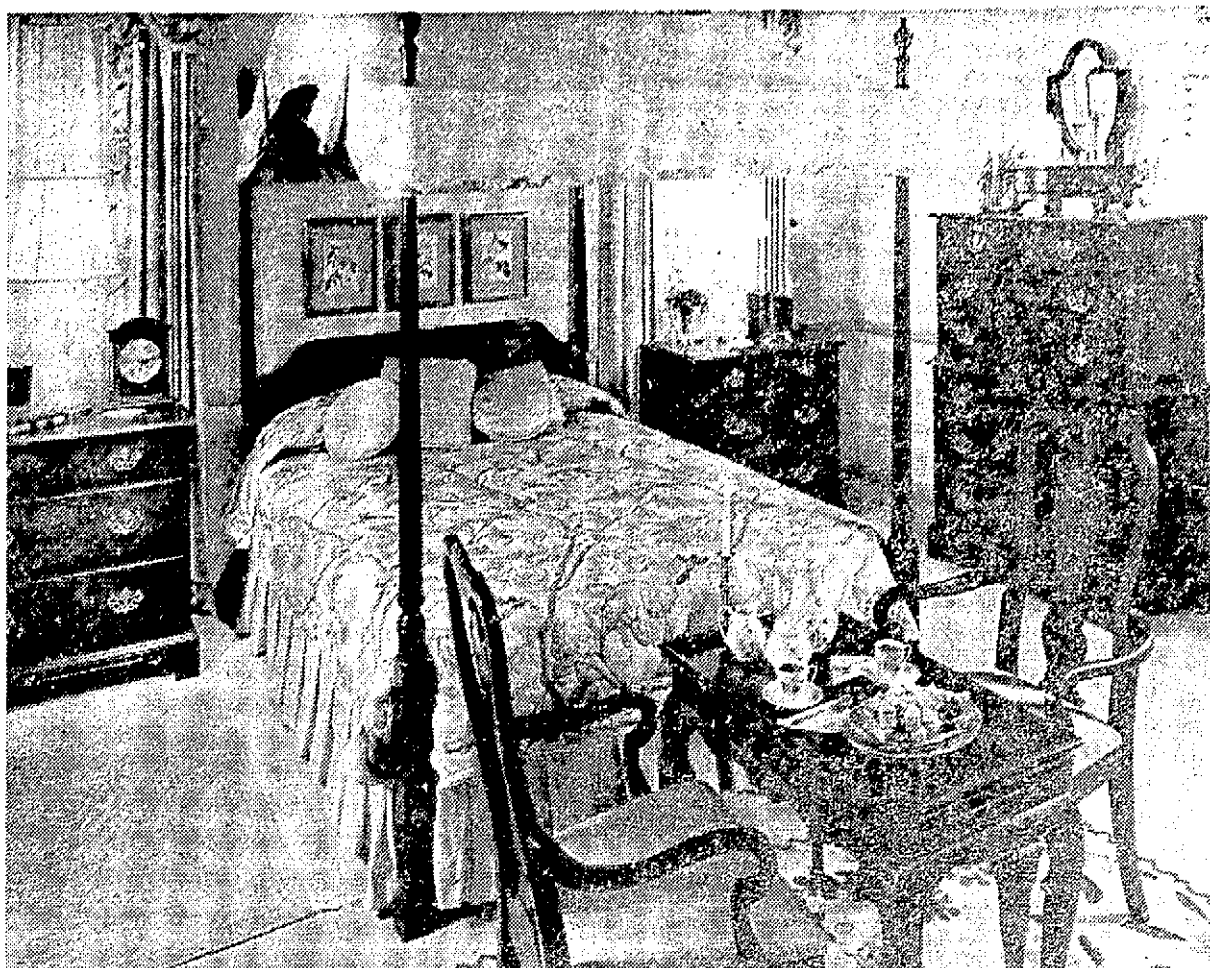

Johnson notes that buying an inexpensive, unfinished chest and antiqueing it is one inexpensive way to include this very flexible piece of furniture in a first home.

Fine antiqued pieces are also available but those are losing popularity.

He said the antiqued finish is less popular in fine furniture now because the antiqueing hides the fine wood quality and people don't like to pay for something which cannot be seen and appreciated.

People are looking for a good buy but also insist on quality. There is a return to the more traditional and away from the trendy things in furniture, Johnson believes.

"They are no longer going to let the furniture industry dictate what they like and buy," he says.

Fire Prevention Tips Well Worth Repeating

DEAR READERS: Today begins Fire Prevention Week. I've had so much response to the column I published last year on the same occasion that I thought I'd reprint it.

In 1974 approximately 12,000 Americans perished in nearly three million fires. And in Canada, there were nearly 900 deaths caused by approximately 79,000 fires.

The total loss due to fire in 1973 was an estimated $3,001,000,000 in the U.S.A. and $254 million in Canada.

Now for some tips that could save your life:

—Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. And never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.

—Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may be damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed.

—Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

—Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

—Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

—Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

—Never smoke in bed.

—Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 per cent of all fires on which they are sprayed, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher and keep it handy in your kitchen, or be a sport and buy one for your cottage, car, boat and the back bedroom.

More recently, some excellent fire-detection systems have become available to homeowners.

Bridge: Test Your Bidding Savvy

You are South, both sides vulnerable, and open One Heart with this hand:

♠ AQ6 ♥ AKJ93 ♦ 10 ♣ J962

1. West doubles, North redoubles, and East bids Two Diamonds. What would you bid now?

2. West passes, your partner jumps to Three Hearts (forcing), and East passes. What would you bid now?

3. West doubles, your partner redoubles, and East bids One Notrump. What would you bid now?

4. West passes, your partner jumps to Four Hearts, and East passes. What would you bid now?

1. Pass. Having redoubled (indicating 10 or more points), North is obligated to act when you pass two diamonds. You should willingly accept North's judgment, whatever he does. If he doubles, you pass. If he does something else, you drive towards game, as you have extra values for your opening bid.

It would be wrong to bid two hearts over two diamonds. This would indicate a relatively weak defensive hand, such as:

♠ KJ3 ♥ AQJ92 ♦ 85 ♣ 73

2. Three spades. There may be a slam in the works, so you should not close the auction by simply bidding four hearts.

3. Double. This is how you tell partner you have extra values. With a minimum you would pass. The double is for penalties

Partner does not need a giant jump-raise for a slam to mature. Any of these three North hands would offer a good chance for six hearts:

♠ KJ72 ♥ Q874 ♦ A93 ♣ A5
♠ 3 ♥ Q7642 ♦ AJ6 ♣ KQ43
♠ K9 ♥ 87532 ♦ A4 ♣ AQ83

Three spades suggests slam possibilities but it does not commit you beyond game. With a weaker hand you would bid four hearts over three.

The 1♥-4♥ sequence is generally aimed more at silencing the opponents than on the hope of making four hearts.

Tomorrow: Nothing to lose.

and indicates willingness to forego game in order to extract a penalty. At the same time, you encourage partner to double whatever else the enemy may bid.

4. Pass. Partner's leap to four is strictly preemptive; it is based on distribution, not high cards. Thus, North might have either of these hands:

♠ 10 ♥ Q86542 ♦ Q7 ♣ K853
♠ 83 ♥ Q875 ♦ AJ9743 ♣ 7

The 1♥-4♥ sequence is generally aimed more at silencing the opponents than on the hope of making four hearts.

Tomorrow: Nothing to lose.

Arsenic Damage Begins To Emerge In Italian Area

Manfredonia, Italy (AP) — Even as experts prepared an operation to neutralize tons of an arsenic substance spread by a plant explosion, the full extent of the damage to human, animal and plant life was just beginning to emerge Sunday.

A week after the explosion at the ANIC fertilizer plant on the outskirts of this Adriatic city, some 10 tons of anhydrous arsenic oxide still covered a 3.7-square-mile area around the plant.

Only Monday or Tuesday did experts plan to begin a textbook chemical process to spread calcium chloride and ferric sulfate to render harmless the poison made famous in English murder mysteries.

A tenth of a gram of pure arsenic can kill a person.

Officials reported Saturday that 10 more persons had been hospitalized with symptoms of arsenic poisoning, including five babies. A total of 24 persons have been treated for stomach ills related to the arsenic.

Although doctors say none of those hospitalized is in any danger, they say there is reason for caution and concern. Hundreds of other persons have undergone tests to determine whether they were affected.

With only about 100 people living in the area that had to be evacuated, the toll on animal life has been much more serious. Some 50 small animals have already died of arsenic poisoning, and hundreds more chickens, turkeys and rabbits will be put to death as a precaution. Some 600 larger animals such as cows, pigs, horses and goats will be moved from the area and watched closely for any signs of sickness.

The ANIC plant and two neighboring industries have been shut down since last Sunday, idling some 1,000 workers, and all activity in the area has been forbidden.

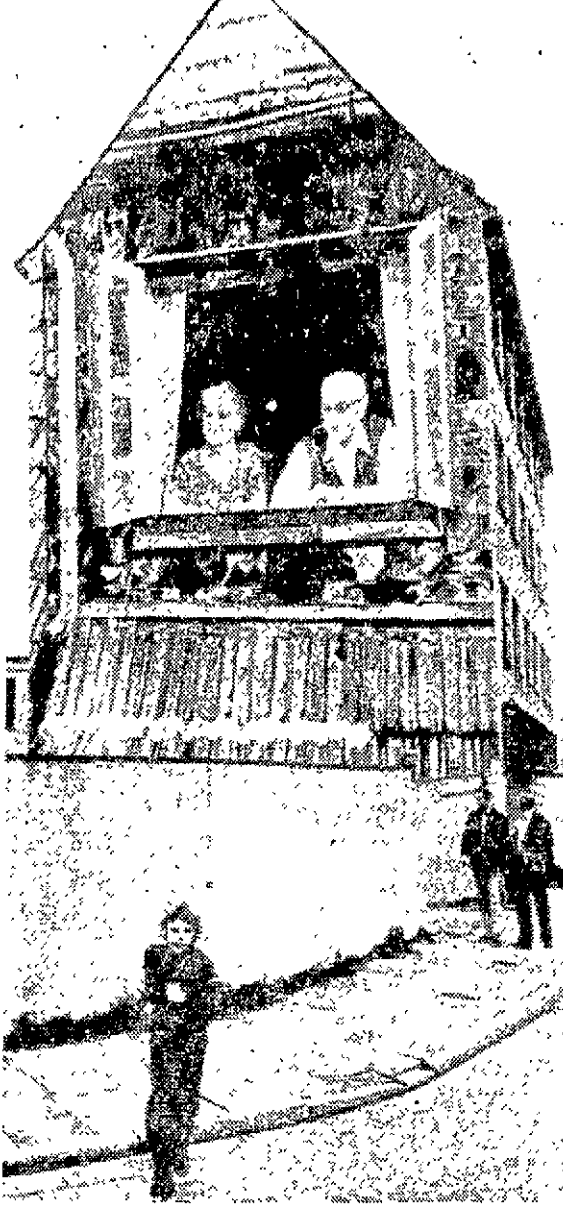

"The situation is serious, and not only for the economy of a zone certainly not flourishing, but also for the dangers which people are running," said Mayor Michele Magno. "Unfortunately, we have not yet succeeded in giving all of our citizens an appreciation of how dangerous it is to pass through or stop inside the polluted zone."

Plant life has also been damaged, with many plants withering and dying as the poison was absorbed. There are fears that the olive crop in the area will have to be destroyed.

As the effects of the industrial accident become clearer, comparisons are being made with another case in Italy this year — the spread of a poison cloud of dioxin from a chemical plant in Seveso, north of Milan, after an explosion in July.

The Seveso accident caused the evacuation of some 700 people who are still being kept away from their homes, the hospitalization of dozens of persons and some 20 abortions on women who feared genetic defects on their unborn children.

Experts say there is no danger of birth defects in Manfredonia as there was in Seveso, and the solution of the problem is simpler here since there is no proven system of neutralizing dioxin.

More States To Join Flu Fight

By The Associated Press

More states join the swine flu campaign this week, although many health officers say they won't offer shots to the general public until mid-month or later.

The first shots were given Friday in Indianapolis, Los Angeles and a suburb of Boston. Fort Worth's health department said people lined up for one-quarter of a mile when it opened a clinic Sunday and predicted 25,000 doses would be administered. New Hampshire opened the first two of its clinics Saturday.

"We were a little disappointed in the turnout, but very pleased with the manner in which the clinics were conducted," said Robin McCrearty of the New Hampshire Department of Health. There had been estimates that as many as 20,000 people would show up the first day, she said. Only 6,000 — 1,600 in the first hour — came.

About 6,000 persons were inoculated at a two-day health fair in Indianapolis, leaving Indianapolis-Marion County with about 50,000 doses of vaccine. "It went well," reported Dr. James E. Bowles, chief of county health services, who said about one-third to one-fourth of those were elderly and high-risk patients.

Whether the vaccine will flow quickly enough from manufacturers to the states for orderly administration remains an open question.

For instance, Kentucky received the first 120,000 of its expected 2.2 million doses only last Thursday. Dr. Carlos Hernandez, the state's director of preventive disease services, said it will take about two weeks to ship the vaccine throughout the state.

Arkansas, which has only about 50,000 of its expected one million doses, won't open mass clinics until 240,000 doses are on hand, said Dr. Paul White, director of the state's communicable disease program. Georgia has 500,000 doses of a promised three million, with the first shots to be given Wednesday at Decatur.

Some of the most populous states — New York, Illinois and Ohio — are among those launching programs Monday.

Numerous states will not offer shots to the general public for another week or two.

Big Beer Bust Not So Big

Munich, West Germany (AP) — The Munich Oktoberfest ended Sunday with innkeepers complaining that there were fewer beer drinkers than last year.

They said they sold only four million liters of beer, or 400,000 liters fewer than last year, mainly because an agricultural show usually staged to coincide with the world's biggest beer bust was canceled. A liter is slightly more than a quart.

But other consumption figures they gave from the huge tents on Munich's Theresienwiese looked impressive:

500,000 fried chickens, 450,000 fried pork sausages, 37 oxen barbecued on spits, 28 stags, 50 tons of fried fish and 30 tons of roast pork.

McCarthy Says Shuffling Work, Not Taxes Is Economy Answer

Washington (AP) — The solution to the nation's economic problems isn't fooling around with the tax law to redistribute the wealth, but rather lies in redistributing the work, Eugene J. McCarthy said Sunday.

The former Minnesota senator who is an independent candidate for president proposed that the work-year, work-week or work-day be shortened.

Cutting working time by 5 or 6% would provide labor for several million unemployed, McCarthy said on CBS' "Face the Nation." And he added that if the overtime now being worked and paid for in American industry were distributed, it would provide jobs for one million of the unemployed.

McCarthy provided no figures to support his proposals.

Asked about the Humphrey-Hawkins bill to reduce unemployment, McCarthy termed it a "fraud," and said the measure would only help about 15% of the unemployed before it would have to be abandoned as too expensive and unworkable.

On taxes, McCarthy disagreed with Democrat Jimmy Carter's suggestion that the entire tax code needs to be rewritten.

"I think it's a rather masterful document," McCarthy said of the tax law he helped draft as a senator.

But he said too much is being asked of the tax laws, in asking them to be an instrument to redistribute the wealth in the country.

There isn't much relief you can offer the taxpayer and still pay the bills, he added.

On other topics McCarthy said:

— The two major political parties are more concerned about their own preservation than about the problems of the nation.

— He will name his major cabinet member: October 8 or 9 in Madison, Wis., but probably not his running mate, because the electorate ought to choose the vice president.

— Americans are wasting too much fuel, principally on autos which are bigger and more powerful than necessary.

— The Democratic party could have stood for something this year, but instead it is running on the Republicans' 1952 platform.

President Ford and Carter talked "nonsense" in their debate on the economy. "It would take a year and a half in the Senate before you could accumulate that much nonsense and they did it in an hour and 30 minutes."

Contracts Specify Soup To Nuts

Omaha (AP) — A man who plays surrogate "mom" to music stars says a $70,000 box office gross could be lost for want of chunky peanut butter.

Elaborate contract riders signed before scheduled concerts require peanut butter for rock group Aerosmith, lime Gatorade for Peter Frampton, and three dozen long-stemmed carnations for the Doobie Brothers, according to City Auditorium Manager Charlie Mancuso.

John Denver needs a rug and comfy chair to get into a mellow mood, while one group asked for a snow cone machine.

Although performers legally can refuse to perform if contract details are omitted, Mancuso defends the contract riders as necessary "to counteract the traveling and the imbalance of food and drink on the road."

Or, as the Doobie Brothers' contract states, "the better the meal, the better the morale."

While Frampton asks for "hot vegetarian food for eight at the end of a performance, or three double cheese pizzas," the group America has to have alfalfa sprouts in its salads.

Mancuso said he's never been asked to line up companionship or drugs for entertainers.

German Kills 3, Self, In Frenzy

Heide, West Germany (AP) — A convicted arsonist went berserk in the streets of this northern German town Sunday morning, shooting and killing three passersby and wounding three others before committing suicide, police reported.

Police said Heinz Carstens, 50, had once threatened action "that will cause the world to listen" after he served three years in prison for setting a series of fires in 1963.

The dead were two men aged 63 and 26 and a 73-year-old woman. One of the three wounded men was in critical condition with a chest wound in a hospital in Kiel, 40 miles away.

High Winds Halt Search In Ogallala Drowning

Ogallala (AP) — Recovery operations were halted Sunday by high winds as divers from the Ogallala recovery unit searched for the body of a 20-year-old Englewood, Colorado woman believed drowned near here.

Ogallala Fire Chief John Hilberbrand said the search operations at Martin Bay of Lake McConaughy would resume Monday morning.

Keith County Atty. Pat Hays said the name of the woman will not be released until her body is recovered.

Authorities said the young woman fell from a sailboat and struck her head as she went into the water.

Friends who were in the boat with her said she was a good swimmer.

But the water is estimated at 40 feet deep and the boat was about 400 feet from the closest shore when she fell.

Divers worked Sunday until about 4 P.M. CDT when strong winds kicked up the high waves.

More Than A Sermon

Worshippers at First Plymouth Church got a bonus Sunday morning.

Members of the Senior High Youth Fellowship cleaned the windshields of cars parked near the 20th and D St. church during services and left a note which asked:

"Like your clean windshield?"

You'll love your clean car." The rest of the message went on to promote a car wash the group is having next Saturday.

$4,000 Haul Taken From House

Stereo equipment, photographic equipment and jewelry, together valued at $4,075 were stolen in a burglary Saturday at the home of V. C. Seth, 937 Dale Drive, police reported.

The break-in occurred in the afternoon while Seth was away from the house for a short time. Police said the intruder pried open an outer and inner door, then entered the house to take a complete stereo outfit, a 35 mm camera with two lenses, a slide projector and a transistor radio.

The bedroom was ransacked in a search which netted the burglar two diamond and sapphire rings and several other pieces of jewelry.

House Ransacked In Burglary

Burglars broke into a house late Saturday or early Sunday at 314 D St., while the owner, Elsie McBride, was away on vacation. Police said the intruder kicked in the back door and apparently took two tape recorders and a pair of speakers worth approximately $500. Nothing else appeared to be disturbed.

3 Abductors Arrested After Boy Frees Self

GROSSE POINTE FARMS, Mich. (AP) — Three alleged abductors of a 10-year-old boy who escaped and foiled their $48,000 ransom demand are to be arraigned Monday in municipal court.

The boy, Scott Miller, told police he was abducted Friday as he walked home from school. He said he was bound in the basement of a house but managed to wriggle free and call his mother.

Police said they apprehended three men, aged 20 to 25 and all Detroit-area residents, but declined to release their names pending the issuance of warrants.

Scott, a fifth-grader, said he was lured into a car by a man who "looked familiar." The man told Scott his father had been hurt at work and that he would drive him to the hospital.

The boy's father is Richard K. Miller, owner of Beaver Tube Corp. in Detroit.

Once he was inside the car, Scott said, his kidnaper drove him to a house near the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit. The boy said he was bound up in the basement of the house and was left alone.

After freeing himself, the boy said he went upstairs, where he telephoned for help. FBI agents rescued him.

KEEP A GOOD THING GOING, AMERICA!

Replace your old gas range with a new gas range.

You've had a good thing going if you've been cooking with natural gas. Because gas ranges have always offered speed, convenience, and dependable service.

But today's gas range offers even more. It's designed for super-efficient operation. So you enjoy important savings in both energy and money.

When it's time to replace your old gas range, stick with natural gas. You'll keep a good thing going.

Center Set Up At NU On Energy Research

In order to better determine Nebraska energy needs, to catalog its resources and to help preserve and develop what energy is here, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln has established an Energy Research and Development Center.

Acting director of the center, Dr. Donald Edwards, associate dean of the College of Engineering and Technology, said it is an attempt to coordinate the energy research being done at NU with other energy-related industries in the state.

"We're not a policy group, like the State Energy Office, but rather a research and development group," he said. "We will work closely with the State Energy Office in preparation of a state energy plan."

Edwards said that universities are better suited to do energy research than the state because the school has research laboratories and faculty expertise to match.

The center was established in July on the suggestion of Chancellor Roy A. Young. Most of the work so far has been organizational, Edwards said.

Although officially no energy related proposals have been sent out to granting agencies through the center, several diseases are in the making, Edwards said.

Among those are:

- The establishment at NU of an energy testing center. Items tested would be consumer-related products, like solar energy devices. The center would probably not be mandated by law, but build instead around integrity.
- A second generation solar house to be owned and operated by the University of Nebraska to allow research on energy saving devices and appliances.
- Advising the NU Central Planning Committee on energy savings and solar applications to university buildings.
- The use of agricultural wastes, mainly crop residues, for on-farm energy generation. Some research is already underway for using crop residues in powering irrigation systems.
- Researching and developing ways of processing coal for conversion into other usable forms of energy.
- A conference on the energy-related transportation needs of Nebraska and the region, with the ultimate goal of solving Nebraska's transportation needs.

Patriots Gain 3rd Straight Upset Victory

By United Press International
The New England Patriots may not be the best team in the American Football Conference but they sure are playing like it.
The Patriots, upset winners over the Miami Dolphins and Pittsburgh Steelers in the two previous weekends, humiliated the Oakland Raiders 48-17 Sunday behind the brilliant quarterbacking of Steve Grogan to retain a share of the AFC East lead with Baltimore.
Grogan, who has now outshone Bob Griese, Terry Bradshaw and Ken Stabler on successive weekends, threw three touchdown passes and ran for two other scores in enabling New England to match its victory total of last season as the Pats improved their record to 3-1.

Bert Jones threw two touchdown passes and Roosevelt Leaks scored twice on one-yard plunges as Baltimore kept pace with New England with a 3-1 record on an easy triumph over punchless and still winless Tampa Bay.

Joe Ferguson threw three first half touchdown passes to Bob Chandler and O.J. Simpson ran for 130 yards and scored two touchdowns in his best game of the season as the Bills upped their record to 2-2 and kept Kansas City winless.

Ken Anderson threw four touchdown passes, including two apiece to Lenvil Elliott and Isaac Curtis, to give Cincinnati its third win in four games and keep the Bengals on top along with Houston in the AFC Central.

C.L. Whittington carried a fumble 96 yards for a touchdown to highlight a 21 point Houston outburst in a span of four minutes of the third quarter to maintain for the Oilers' their share of the AFC Central lead.

Steve Jones scored on a three-yard pass and a threeyard run and Jim Bakken added two field goals as St. Louis kept the New York Giants winless in four games. Mike Sensibaugh returned an interception 35 yards for a TD on the second play of the game to send St. Louis off to its third victory.

Steve Odom caught a 40-yard scoring pass and set up two touchdowns with long runs to help Green Bay record its first victory of the season. Odom set up Green Bay's first touchdown when he returned the opening kickoff 88 yards to the Detroit two and his 17-yard run to the two on a reverse set up the Packers' go-ahead touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Mike Boryla threw two second half touchdown passes Sunday, the second a nine-yarder to Charles Smith with only 4:21 left in the game, to give underdog Philadelphia a come-from-behind win over Atlanta.

Bob Avellini ran for one touchdown and passed for another and Walter Payton rushed for 104 yards and a touchdown as Chicago knocked Washington from the ranks of the unbeaten. The Bears' defense recorded six sacks in the game to bring its league leading total to 33 in four games.

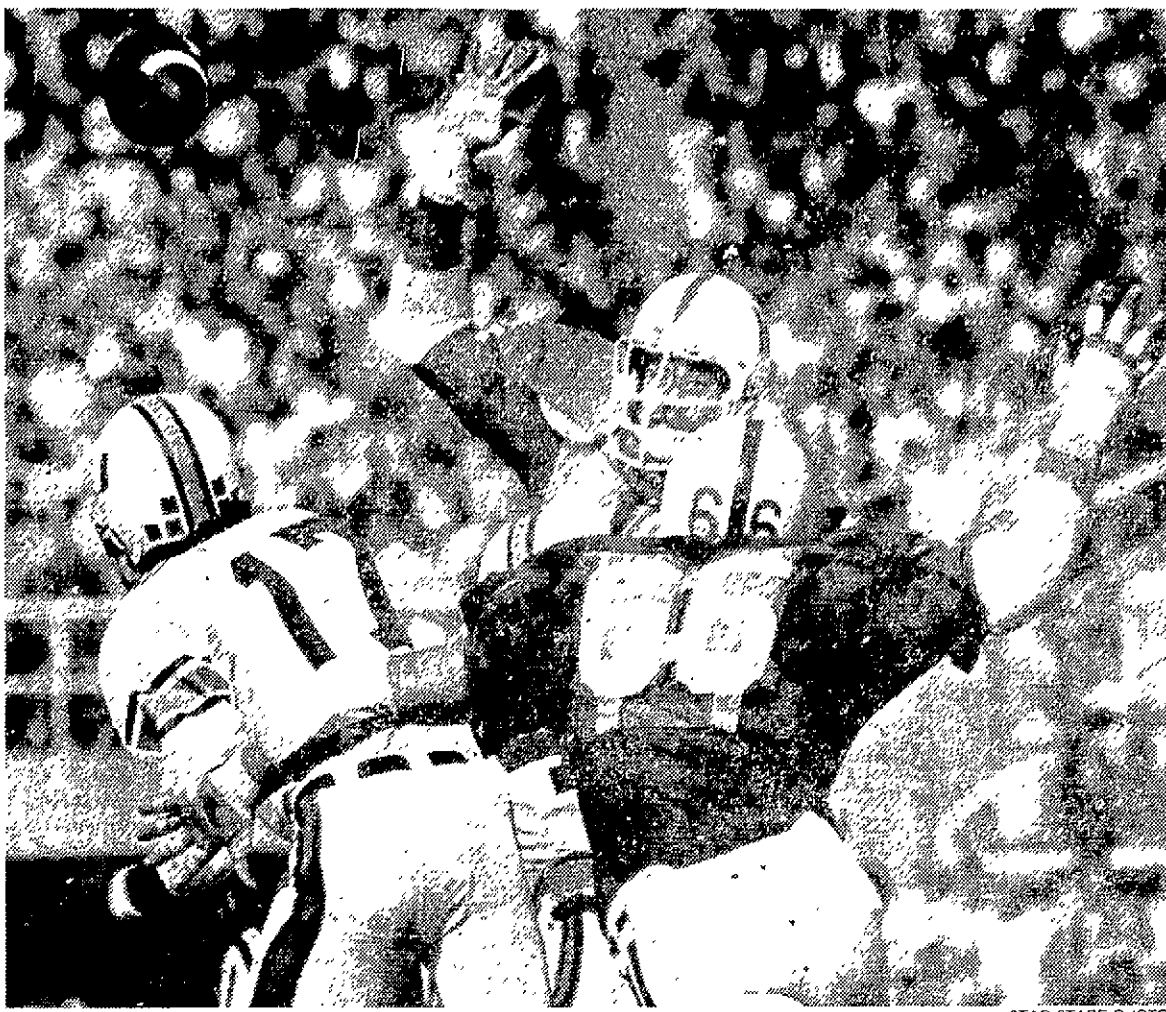

Steve Mike-Mayer kicked a 31-yard field goal with 38 seconds left in the third quarter to break a scoreless tie and San Francisco went on to score two touchdowns in the next four minutes to keep the New York Jets winless.

Rick Upchurch set a team record with a 92-yard punt return and Jim Turner kicked four field goals as Denver recorded its first shutout in five years to hand San Diego its first loss.

James Harris threw touchdown passes of 38 and 43 yards and Tom Dempsey added a game-winning 19-yard field goal with less than two minutes to go as Los Angeles rallied from a 14-0 deficit to hand Miami its second loss in four games.

Roger Staubach threw two touchdown passes and running backs Robert Newhouse and Doug Dennison each added scores on the ground as the Cowboys remained unbeaten and the Seahawks winless.

Miami quarterback E. J. Baker (17) gets off a pass Saturday under pressure from Nebraska middle guard Jeff Pullen (66) and defensive tackle Ron Pruitt (hand up).

Baker completed just seven of 20 passes during the game, which the Huskers won, 17-9.

Ferragamo, Forgotten Hero

One of the ironies of Saturday's 17-9 Nebraska victory over Miami-Florida is that not one reporter in the Cornhusker dressing room talked to the one player who probably was the most instrumental in the final outcome.

That player was quarterback Vince Ferragamo, who followed up his greatest performance as a Husker against Texas Christian by having an even greater afternoon against the Hurricanes.

All Vince did was throw for Nebraska's only touchdowns of the game and complete 17 of 22 passes for 264 yards. That topped his TCU performance, which was 15 of 23 for 218 yards. The only category he didn't match was four TD passes.

Records aren't readily available on how his 264 yards stacks up on the NU all-time lists, but the figure certainly has to rank high. The school record for yards in a single game was set at 297 yards by Dave Humm against Wisconsin in 1973.

Ferragamo has boosted his completion percentage to .646, which probably is No. 1 in the nation among major college passers. San Jose State's Steve Deberg had a .651 average going into Saturday's game against California, but his team hit just 22 of 55 in a 43-16 loss to the Bears.

Ferragamo's statistics now are 53 of 82 (three intercepted), 722 yards and seven TD passes.

Among his completions were five quick-screens to Monte Anthony for 60 yards, one to Bobby Thomas for 48, two to Chuck Malito for 39, and three to Dave Shamblyn for 82.

Huskers' Defense Tough

Nebraska's Black Shirt defense made the game a "rout" statistically even though the 17-9 score didn't fall in the rout category of the mythical Husker Rout Chart. The Huskers had a 471-168 edge in total offense.

The Black Shirts yielded minus-four yards rushing to Miami in the second half. They reduced their defense against the rush average to 83 yards a game, which also could be the nation's No. 1 figure when NCAA statistics are released in midweek.

Randy Lessman averaged 39 yards on six punts and his kicks were returned just twice for nine yards. After four games, opponents have netted plus-three on returns. That gives Lessman a "net punting" average of 40.2 yards. Net is determined by average yards on punts (40.4) minus average yards on returns.

Coach Tom Osborne defended his decision to have Lessman punt on the play Miami was called for roughing: "I heard the boos up there. I'm going to call what I think will win. I'm not affected by the crowd because they don't know what's involved. They want to win, too, but they (Miami) had some big, strong people up front, and with their field goal kicker, if we hadn't made that, all they'd have needed was one or two first downs and their kicker would be kicking for the win."

Nebraska's game with Colorado will be televised on the Notre Dame football network, but not live. It will be shown locally at 8 a.m. Sunday. The network, C. D. Chesley Sports TV, picked the game because Notre Dame is idle next Saturday.

If you're wondering why Colorado played Drake last Saturday, it's because Texas asked to get out of its contract for a game that day because of Southwest Conference commitments.

Archer's Bryant Learns His Lesson Drought Is Over

By United Press International
Bear Bryant discovered you can't measure an opponent's heart by the physical dimensions of its players, and Woody Hayes found out you can't depend on someone else's errors when victory is less than 50 yards and a half-minute away.

What those lessons added up to Saturday were a defeat for ninth-ranked Alabama at the hands of Georgia's "runt" defense on and a tie for eighth-ranked Ohio State in its revenge game against UCLA.
"They simply beat the hell out of us," Bryant said of a Georgia defense which shut out Alabama's Crimson Tide 21-0 with only one starter weighing more than 210 pounds. "We have no excuses. They beat us in all phases of the game. They rammed it down our throats. They came at us from the start and never let up."

Alabama's much-heralded wishbone offense could ground out only 49 yards in 45 rushing attempts. The shutout was the first inflicted upon the Crimson Tide in 70 games and the victory was the first for sixth-ranked Georgia against Alabama since 1965.

CU's Knapple Ready For NU

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer
Nebraska is Jeff Knapple's territory to Colorado's Jeff Knapple.

The former high school all-American from Boulder's Fairview High School originally signed a Big Eight letter-of-intent to play football at Nebraska. But he changed his mind and signed a national intent letter at UCLA in 1974.

Things, however, didn't work out at UCLA for the 6-3, 196-pound quarterback.

"He played one game for UCLA and chipped a vertebra," explained Colorado sports publicist Mike Moran. "Then he transferred to CU. He sat out last season, but was one of the most publicized players ever out of Colorado."

"His uncle, Frank Knapple, was a longtime Omaha Central football coach and his father, Bob Knapple was an all-Omaha football player for Omaha Central in 1952. I read that in an old Omaha newspaper."

Knapple and his Colorado Buffalo teammates will get a chance to avenge last year's 63-21 loss to Nebraska when the Huskers invade Boulder Saturday in the Big Eight opener for both teams.

Knapple, who was heavily recruited by Nebraska before former UCLA coach Dick Vermeil lured him to Los Angeles, performed exceptionally well in Saturday's 45-24 win at Boulder over Drake.

He completed four of six passes for 91 yards and one touchdown and ran three times for 34 yards in a little more than one quarter. He entered the game in the third quarter and directed CU to 21 points.

"Knapple deserves to start after the way he played against Drake," noted head coach Bill Mallory. "He came into the game and did a good job."

Moran, who said Knapple has as much ability as anyone who has every played at CU, was superb on one play against Drake.

"He was running a sweep left. He saw Gauntty (sophomore split end Steve) in the right flank. He checked off and threw to him for a 17-yard touchdown. You could see flashes of brilliance in the way he played. He looked every bit as good as his statistics."

Nevertheless, Jeff Austin, who started in the Buffs' first four games this season, is expected to see action against the Huskers.

After losing 24-7 at Lubbock, Tex. to Texas Tech, Colorado has tallied three victories — 21-7 at Washington, 33-3 over Miami, Fla. and Drake.

"We've been playing so much better it's like night and day," Moran explained. "Against Texas Tech, we made an unbelievable number of errors. Austin threw five interceptions. Against Washington, we turned things around. But we lost offensive right tackle Leon White (a 6-3, 271-pound senior who was being billed for all-Big Eight and all-American honors) with a knee injury."

"Of course, he gets an extra year of eligibility but we miss him," Moran continued. "Despite the bush league comments from Miami about our turf, we played our best game against Miami. It wasn't slippery at all."

"We began to throw with more success. Our defense was excellent allowing them just 73 rushing yards and shutting off their passing."

The Buffalo effort against Drake, was obviously missing enthusiasm, Moran said. Despite Drake's credentials, the Bulldogs lack the manpower to compete with CU.

Still, Drake accumulated 402 total offensive yards against CU.

The Buffs gained almost 600 total offensive yards to boost their average game performance to 250 rushing and 108 passing yards.

While the offense has been sputtering, the defense is much improved, partially because of right tackle Laval Short, a 6-2, 230-pounder from Littleton, Colo.

"He's just a freshman, but he's started all four games and done a whale of a job," Moran said. "He's just 17 years old, but he's a Baby Selmon (referring to the former Oklahoma all-American brother team)."

Although CU has recently been meeting Missouri the week before Nebraska, Moran said playing Drake rather than the Tigers should aid CU in its league opener.

"It's a key game for us because of momentum. It's a whole new game for our players. They don't have to be reminded of what happened last year in Lincoln. It's better coming off the Drake game than Missouri. We were able to rest some players and try some new things. We know we'll have to play our best game against Nebraska to win."

Promises For Wayne State Coach Finally Become Reality

By KEN HAMBLETON
State College Writer
All the "promises" are finally becoming reality for Wayne State football coach Del Stollenberg.

The Wildcats had just nine returning starters on this year's team but those returning "showed a lot of promise," Stollenberg said before the season started.

Three straight losses dimmed the Wildcats' hopes and it appeared that getting a single win on a very tough schedule was going to be questionable.

But Wayne smothered undefeated Midland 14-0 Saturday to give the Warriors their second regular season loss in 26 games, and hand the Wildcats their third straight win over the powerful Warriors. (The win in 1974 was called a forfeit however because Wayne had an ineligible player).

"It's kind of a funny thing, but we didn't play all that much better than in our first three games," said Stollenberg. "Ralph Barclay, our defensive coach did a hell of a job and the defense really played well."

Wayne held the Warriors to 11 yards rushing in 36 attempts and gave up 95 yards passing. Midland came into the game averaging 416 yards rushing and 131 passing. "I had Midland with six yards, rushing," said Stollenberg. "Midland had a week off before playing us and we figured they'd throw all kinds of different things at us," said Stollenberg, "but our suspicions were unfounded."

"They did come out passing, which was unusual for them but our defensive line kept the pressure on throughout the game," Stollenberg said.

Defensive end Gary Krajciek, the only returning starter on the defensive line and who "just hadn't showed us that much this year," according to Stollenberg, logged 19 tackles and was credited with five of Wayne's 12 quarterback sacks.

"Bill Koll, Ray Wagner and Bob Curry slowed down their passing and Kill and Curry each had an interception," Stollenberg said. "We also got good performances from Dwight Lienemann, who had been injured the past two weeks and cornerback Charlie Turner," he added.

Offensively, Wayne had another "promise" fulfilled with the running efforts of freshman Bob Barry of Battle Creek. "He's got the size at 6-3, 195-pounds and speed with a 4.8 second time in the 40-yard dash," said Stollenberg.

Barry, who had carried just two times before the Midland game, rushed 37 times for 128 yards and the Wildcats' scores with touchdown runs of 1 and 10 yards in his first starting assignment. Another "pleasant surprise" is the blossoming of freshman quarterback Mark Mintken, younger brother of senior receiver Maune Mintken, who holds all of Wayne's pass receiving records.

"Mark has a lot of quickness and is a lot like Rick Bendetto who quarterbacked for us the past three years," Stollenberg said. "He beat out Brad Hahn, a senior, who had been waiting in the wings for a couple of years, and is an adequate passer."

Fullback Kirk Gardner, who had been averaging 68 yards a game, "is as good a blocker you can find. And he makes the 1-formation work for us."

Wayne opens its Nebraska College Conference schedule next Saturday hosting Chadron.

In other weekend highlights, Brad Fults passed 10 yards for a touchdown to Bill Ryan to put Chadron ahead 20-17 with less than a minute left in the game with Colorado School of Mines. But a 100-yard touchdown return by James Mahoney on the ensuing kickoff gave CSM a 29-20 win.

Kearney's Dave Burke scored on runs of one and seven yards to lead the Antelopes to a 21-7 Central States Intercollegiate Conference win over Emporia. Kearney now 3-1 is 1-1 in the CSIC.

Brett Wins Batting Title Over McRae

By United Press International
Larry Hise drove in a pair of runs with a double and single Sunday to spark Minnesota to a 5-3 victory over Kansas City, but the Royals' George Brett had his 29th three-hit game to claim the American League batting title from teammate Hal McRae and the Twins' Rod Carew.

Brett had two doubles and an inside-the-park home run in the ninth inning to wind up the season with a .333 average to teammate McRae's .332. McRae was 2-for-4 and, after grounding out to shortstop in the ninth inning, had to be physically restrained from going after Twins Manager Gene Mauch, who the Royals' designated hitter claimed had ordered left fielder Steve Brye to let Brett's homer bounce in front of him. Carew, the fourtime defending champion, was 2-for-4, giving him 200 hits, but finished third at .331.

Hise drove in Dan Ford with an infield single in the first and doubled to drive home Craig Kuskick during a three-run third inning by the Twins off Paul Splittorff, making his first start since he developed tendonitis in the index finger of his pitching hand on July 27. Jim Hughes, 9-14, went the distance and gave up five hits for the win.

Elsewhere in the American League, California blanked Oakland 1-0, Detroit downed Milwaukee 5-2, Texas shut out Chicago 3-0, Boston edged Baltimore 3-2 and Cleveland at New York was rained.

Nolan Ryan pitched a two-hitter and struck out 14 to run his season total 327 and lead California to a 1-0 victory over Oakland. Terry Humphrey drove home the game's only run with a single in the seventh, following Tony Solaita's single, Ron Jackson's foreceout and a sacrifice by Rusty Torres.

Ryan finished with a 17-18 record and the 327 strikeouts marked, the fourth time in his career the right-hander has struck out 300 or more.

Rookie right-hander Len Barker pitched a three-hitter and Roy Howell hit a solo homer as Texas defeated Chicago. Barker, 1-0, struck out six and walked three in earning his first major league victory. Howell homered in the fourth with one out, his eighth of the season.

Hank Aaron singled in his last major league at bat Sunday, but Detroit spoiled the Brewer star's final appearance by defeating Milwaukee 5-2 behind three RBI by Pedro Garcia. Aaron's single, a hard shot that shortstop Jerry Manuel knocked down but couldn't make a play on, was the 3,771th hit of his career and drove in the Brewers' second run in the sixth inning.

Aaron finished his career with a lifetime batting average of .305 and numerous major league records, including most home runs (755), games played (3,298), at bats (12,364), runs batted in (2,297) and total bases (6,856).

Rick Burleson's two-out single scored Butch Hobson with the winning run in the 15th inning to give Boston its 3-2 victory over Baltimore. Hobson led off the 15th with a single, went to second on Cecil Cooper's sacrifice and scored on Burleson's two-out single.

In the National League, Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies recorded his 20th victory of the season and Bill Madlock of the Chicago Cubs drew to a close.

Tuning up for his championship series assignment against the Cincinnati Reds, Carlton pitched a three-hitter, struck out 12 and raised his record to 20-7, in giving the Phillies a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets. It was his third 20-victory season. Madlock went 4-for-4 in the Cubs' 8-2 triumph over the Montreal Expos and raised his batting average to .338. Cincinnati's Ken Griffey, meanwhile, went 0-for-2 in the Reds' 11-1 romp over the Atlanta Braves and finished the season with a .336-mark.

It was the second straight NL batting title for Madlock, who won it last season with a .354 average.

Jack Billingham, Manny Sarmiento, Don Gullett and Pedro Borbon combined for a seven-hitter in the Reds' victory over the Braves.

The Pittsburgh Pirates scored a pair of 1-0 victories over the St. Louis Cardinals and the San Diego Padres edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2, in the other NL games.

Jerry Reuss won his 14th game and Jim Rooker his 15th as the Pirates shut out the Cardinals twice and Rick Sawyer pitched a six-hitter to give the Padres their triumph over the Dodgers.

Quarterback Matt Robinson paced the Bulldogs' offense, rushing three yards for one touchdown and passing six yards to Ulysses Norris for another.

Bryant told his club, which also lost to Mississippi in the season opener, that it simply had to be more dedicated and start all over again.

"None of you have been paying attention and that's why we lost," he said. "We start all over Monday. We'll see whether we've got any guts."

Hayes, meanwhile, had his guts questioned by 87,969 partisan fans who roundly booed the Ohio State mentor for electing to punt rather than try for a first down in a fourth-and-four situation on the UCLA 48-yard line with 30 seconds left and the score tied 10-10.

"I don't like ties, but I wasn't going to throw the game away," the 63-year-old Hayes explained.

Second-ranked UCLA didn't pass and it didn't fumble, either. Therefore, Ohio State couldn't average a 23-10 loss to the Bruins in last New Year's Day Rose Bowl game that spoiled a perfect season.

The tie marked the second straight week Ohio State has failed to win at home, something that had not happened since 1970. Last week, the Buckeyes were beaten in the waning seconds by Missouri, 22-21.

"I felt it was a tremendous struggle on both sides," UCLA's 32-year-old first-year coach Terry Donahue said. "It was a very intense game, a classic struggle, a blood bath. Players from both sides were carried off the field."

Senior running back Rob Lytle scored touchdowns on runs of nine and 25 yards and passed Tom Harmon on the all-time Michigan rushing list in leading the way to victory. He finished the game with 109 yards on 14 carries to push his career total to 2,186, 52 yards more than Harmon.

Pittsburgh quarterback Matt Cavanaugh threw a school-record five touchdown passes and rolled up 339 yards through the air in leading the Panthers to victory. Tony Dorsett scored only one touchdown but amassed 129 yards to go over the 100-yard mark for the 12th consecutive game.

IS Does All But Beat OU

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A lot of changes have been made in the Iowa State football program, but one thing remains the same—the Cyclones cannot beat Oklahoma.

While Iowa State was opening the Big Eight Conference season Saturday by picking up 22 first downs and holding fourth-ranked Oklahoma to seven, gaining 321 yards and holding Oklahoma to 215, the Cyclones were still unable to win. Oklahoma scored a 24-10 victory, its 15th straight and 45th in 49 meetings with Iowa State.

That was the only league game played last weekend as six other conference teams were closing out their non-league seasons and five of them won.

While Oklahoma closes its non-conference schedule against Texas at Dallas and Iowa State meets Utah this week, the rest of the teams open their league season with Nebraska at Colorado; Kansas at Oklahoma State and Missouri at Kansas State.

While Iowa State was capable of containing Oklahoma—holding it to 195 yards rushing compared to a season average 384—it could not stop Horace Ivey from running 62 yards for a touchdown to give Oklahoma a 17-10 lead with 4:08 to play or Jerry Anderson from running 58 yards with an interception for another score in the closing minute.

"We lost it on the kicking game," said Iowa State coach Earle Bruce.

Among the kicking problems faced by Iowa State was a 67-yard punt by Oklahoma's Mickey Hatcher from his own 16 and missed field goals of 52 and 34 yards by Scott Kollman.

Last year, Wisconsin used its regular defense in trying to stop Kansas' wishbone and the Jayhawks ran for 452 yards and a 41-7 win. This year, Wisconsin tried to stop the Jayhawk running game and quarterback Nolan Cromwell, who did run for three scores, decided to throw for 123 yards and a touchdown in the first half of a 34-24 win.

Missouri tried to give its game away in the first half—losing four fumbles. But Curtis Brown was too much for North Carolina, running for 161 yards, including a 52-yard touchdown, in guiding the Tigers to 530 yards total offense while Carolina had only 182.

Korla also lost four fumbles but with quarterback Jeff Knapp coming off the bench late in the second quarter, the Buffs were able to turn a 17-17 halftime tie into a 38-17 lead by the end of the third quarter as Tony Reed scored twice in that period.

Touchdown runs by Terry Miller and Robert Turner overcame Abby Daigle's four missed field goals and helped Oklahoma State avert upset while Kansas State saw a 10-0 halftime lead vanish as it lost two fumbles and an interception to set up 17 of the Seminoles' points.

Tarkenton Questionable

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Injured Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton, who has never missed a National Football League game in his 16-year career, remains questionable for Monday night's Vikings-Pittsburgh Steelers game.

Minnesota Coach Bud Grant has named Bob Lee as his starting quarterback, but said, "I'm not held to it. Francis is still questionable but he is a lot better."

Tarkenton bruised his ribs in the first half of the Vikings' 10-9 victory over Detroit last week and was replaced in the second half by Lee, a seven-year veteran who connected on 10-of-17 passes for 115 yards and led the Vikings to victory. Minnesota is 2-0-1.

"This season we played Bobby quite a bit in the preseason," Grant said. "When we needed him at Detroit he moved in and helped us win the game. We won't be concerned about playing Bobby against Pittsburgh if Francis can't go."

Both teams held brief practices Sunday for the nationally-televised contest that marks the first meeting between the two perennial division champions since the Steelers' 16-6 Super Bowl IX victory in January, 1975.

The Pittsburgh defense played one of its best games ever in the Steelers' first Super Bowl win, limiting the Vikings to a meager 123 yards total offense, including just 17 yards in 20 rushing attempts.

Offensively, the Steelers have played well, with running back Franco Harris off to fine start with 284 yards.

televised contest that marks the first meeting between the two perennial division champions since the Steelers' 16-6 Super Bowl IX victory in January, 1975.

The Pittsburgh defense played one of its best games ever in the Steelers' first Super Bowl win, limiting the Vikings to a meager 123 yards total offense, including just 17 yards in 20 rushing attempts.

Offensively, the Steelers have played well, with running back Franco Harris off to fine start with 284 yards.

Both teams held brief practices Sunday for the nationally-

THE RYATTS

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

Monday, October 4, 1976

Many people tell me, "I like Libra!" Persons born under this zodiacal sign are usually "liked," if not always loved. The general tendency is for Libra to be fair, conciliatory—but the native can also be insistent, dedicated, temperamental and somewhat vain. Libra understands commitment, art, beauty, cosmetics, appreciates luxury, jewelry and needs a mate or partner who acts as a private cheering section. But no matter what, I suspect people will continue to tell me "I like Libra!"

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You're able to get job done. You are rewarded for efforts, achievements. Long-distance communication, first appearing to be rejection, turns out to be encouragement. Capricorn, Cancer persons are part of scenario.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Involvement is featured. If you play games with emotions, you pay a price. If serious, you could be paving way for happiness. Aries, Libra individuals play key roles. You are able to complete important project. Opportunity exists for better display and distribution.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get fresh look at situation which requires legal green light. Leo, Aquarius could play prominent roles. Build on solid structure. Get promises, commitments in writing. One who promises "too much" is seeing how susceptible you might be. Key is practicality, independent inquiries.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Ability to appeal to public is highlighted. Your remarks are quizzical, wise and funny. Day's question: good fortune. Short ideas, relatives, relief from money pressure—these could all be part of scenario.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Element of timing is in your favor. You're able to consolidate assets. Cancer, Gemini and Sagittarius could figure prominently. Accent on valuation, locating lost articles, protecting your interests.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lunar cycle is such that you get results. Persons who were evasive will be available. Cutline needs—check priorities. Insist on quality—don't sell yourself short. Judgment, intuition are on target. Know it and be confident.

OCTOBER 4th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY! You are dynamic, stubborn, willing to fight for principles. You were on your own early, either in a literal or psychological sense. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio persons play important roles in your life. You are frank, direct, have deep appreciation for creative abilities. July was significant for you in 1976, a year which features new starts, added independence, chance to rectify past errors—and to love.

Discover your love and money mates! Send 75 cents to Omarr Astrology Secrets (The Lincoln Star), P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90033. You'll find answers in Sydney Omarr's booklet, "Secret Hints for Men and Women." (© 1976 Los Angeles Times)

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Highlight willingness to expand, to try different areas of endeavor, to socialize—and to laugh at your own antics. Accent on hopes, wishes, romantic concerns. Money picture is brighter than it might appear on surface.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Break through road block. Refuse to be intimidated. Accent on rebuilding. One in position of authority wants to be convinced. The native is "rooting" for you. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio figure prominently.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be ready for change, variety, detachment work, relationship that becomes "interesting." Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius figure in picture. Accent on long-range plans, projects, language, communication, education.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You recover from apparent setback. Timing improves. Family situation is harmonious. You have reason for "private celebration." Taurus, Libra and Scorpio figure prominently. Your interest in life's mysteries surges to the fore.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
